Roosevelt To Address World On British Aid Plans Tonight

Move Is Seen As Attempt To Steel England

House Group Presses Hearing on $7,000- 000,000 Fund.

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 14.—President Roosevelt decided today to make a major radio address tomorrow night in an apparent move to cement public support for the $7,000,000,000 lease-lend program and to help steel the British and other foes of the Axis against anything Hitler may launch in the way of a spring blitzkrieg.

He made the surprise announcement that the 30-minute address, dealing with defense and aid to nations battling aggressors, would be given at the annual dinner tendered him by the White House Correspondents' Association. For 20 years speeches have been taboo at these dinners, but Mr. Roosevelt asked newsmen's permission to make one on this occasion, and it was readily granted.

The speech, to begin at 8:30 p. m., Atlanta time, will go out over the major broadcasting companies, and will be transmitted abroad in at least six languages.

Bill Is Pressed.
Seated around the dinner tables with Mr. Roosevelt will be a large number of notables, including Wendell L. Willkie, Lord Halifax, the British ambassador; Secretary of State Hull, other cabinet members, members of congress, and prominent newsmen.

While the President was announcing his speaking plans at a press conference, a House Appropriations Subcommittee pressed ahead with hearings on the $7,000,000,000 fund he has asked to implement the lease-lend program. Harold D. Smith, budget director, and William S. Knudsen, director of the Office of Production Management, went before the committee in executive session.

Representative Woodrum, Democrat, Virginia, chairman of the subcommittee, was seeking to wind up the hearings swiftly, with a view to obtaining house action on the big fund by the middle of next week.

Arms on Way.

A disclosure that some material had already been started on its way abroad under the lease-lend act came from Secretary of War Stimson. Presumably this was material transferred from existing supplies of the United States Army or Navy. The bill permits the President to transfer up to $1,300,000,000 of such material.

Stimson, however, declined to go into any detail at this time. "The information will come out in due time," he said. "As far as I am concerned no details will be disclosed prematurely. I don't think it would be fair to Great Britain."

Mr. Roosevelt also refrained from giving any details as to supplies that have been or may be sent to the British. There has been no decision, he said, on transferring additional naval craft and as for cargo vessels, this country has none available for transfer.

Officer Dies in Leap From 9th Floor Fire

DEATH PLUNGE—The smoke-blackened 9th floor corner of this Athens hotel marks the point from which Lieutenant Bush Sneed leaped to death from his fire-filled room. Dotted line follows course of plunge.

IT ENDED HERE—The crumpled side of this parked automobile marks the end of Lieutenant Sneed's dive.

Tennessean's Companion Escapes From Athens Hotel Blaze.

ATHENS, Ga., March 14.—(AP) Awakened by a fellow officer to find his hotel room in flames early today, First Lieutenant Bush Sneed, of Nashville, Tenn., jumped or fell nine stories to death.

Coroner Bert Beusse's jury attributed the death to "a fire which evidently originated from a cigarette." Beusse said there was no evidence to show whether Sneed jumped or fell in an effort to reach the door.

Sneed and Captain John T. McCall, of Nashville, en route to Fort Jackson, S. C., checked in at the Holman hotel about 3 a. m., retired about 4, and the fire was discovered at 6.

Captain McCall said he did not see his friend after awakening him and did not know he was dead until informed by a fireman a half-hour later.

"When I woke up," he said, "I smelled smoke and then I noticed one of the beds was afire. I jumped up and grabbed a blanket and tried to beat it out. Then I noticed Lieutenant Sneed had not.

House Passes Record-Setting Naval Measure

$3,446,585,144 Involves 6 Battle Cruisers Being Built.

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 14.—A record-breaking $3,446,585,144 naval appropriation bill was passed by the house today after the chamber had heard a warning that the United States would "certainly" be attacked, sooner later, by the hungry Axis hordes of Europe and Asia, unless we powerfully arm ourselves.

Chairman Scrugham, Democrat, Nevada, of the house naval appropriations subcommittee, complied the warning with a declaration that mastery of the sea would be the deciding factor in the current war.

In urging speedy approval of the huge fund, the appropriations subcommittee disclosed for the first time that the navy is building six battle cruisers, a fast and powerful combat ship of a type new to the United States fleet.

Without Armor.
Obscure tables in the printed hearings accompanying the bill disclosed that the new craft would cost $54,300,000 apiece, apparently without ordnance and armor, and that they would be built by the New York Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, at Camden, N. J.

There was nothing to indicate the exact tonnage of the new ships but the possibility that they might be as large as 27,000 tons was discussed at public hearings before the house naval committee last year when the two-ocean fleet was authorized. The new craft would be faster than battle ships but not so heavily armored and would be more than a match for the powerful "raiders" of other navies, such as the German "pocket battleship" type.

Chairman Vinson, Democrat, Georgia, of the house naval committee, said actual construction of the new ships had not started yet and one table showed that only $1,100,000 would be spent on them during the fiscal year ending June 30. That would just about cover the cost of plans.

Long-Range Patrols.
Vinson said "Japan had nothing in the world to do" with this country's decision to build the new craft but conceded they would be particularly valuable for the long-range patrols the navy might have to undertake in the Pacific and South Atlantic under the nation's policy of hemisphere defense.

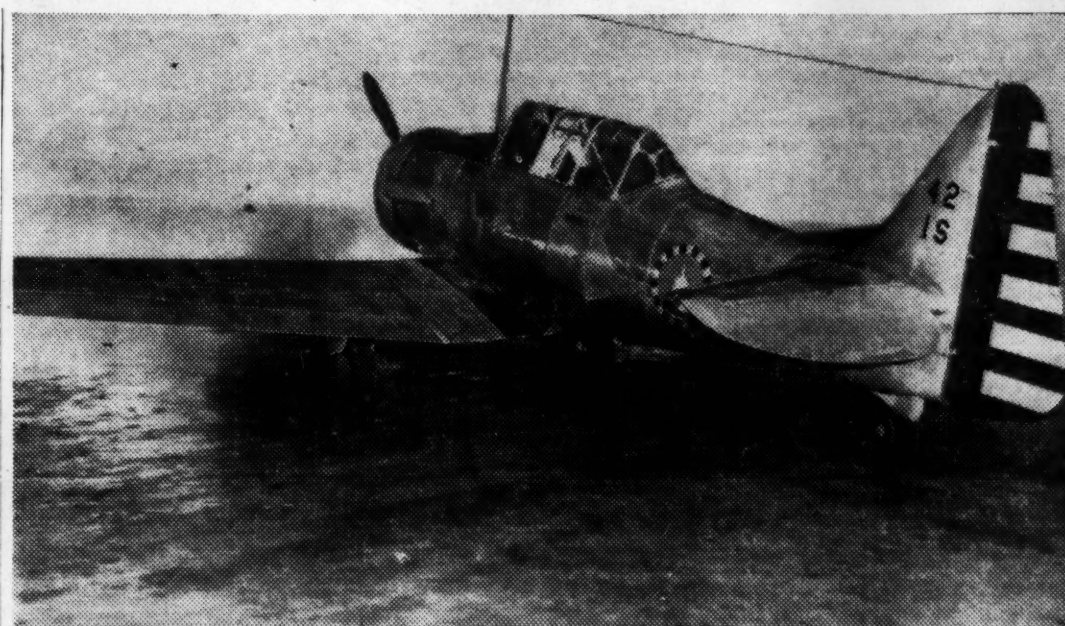

The huge supply bill, containing funds to finance the navy's activities for the year starting July 1, included $1,515,000,000 to carry forward the two-ocean shipbuilding program. The program involves a total of 729 ships of all types and categories.

7 Billion Expected To Be Spent, Arms Delivered in 16 Months

By IRVING PERLMETER.
WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP) Predicting one of the fastest spending programs in history, responsible officials forecast today that the $7,000,000,000 lease-lend appropriation would be spent and the weapons delivered to Great Britain and other friendly nations within the next 16 months.

These persons indicated that this was the goal of those who drafted the program, and they believed it could be achieved. They said it would swell the federal budget for the next fiscal year to more than $20,000,000,000, making it easily the biggest in United States history, and beating by more than $2,000,000,000 the costliest year of the World War.

(Moreover, these figures give

Rickenbacker's Old War foe Sends Greetings From Germany

Ernst Udet, Great German Ace in World War Number One, Hopes for Recovery of American With Whom He Fought for His Life.

By RALPH MCGILL.
This is a story about a cablegram which hasn't yet been seen by the fellow to whom it was sent.

Everybody knows that Eddie Rickenbacker, coming back to life out at the Piedmont hospital, was in the first World War.

Most everyone knows he was America's greatest ace, credited with 26 official victories.

He was the flying fighter the Germans feared most.

While he was flying, and leading a squadron, there were days when the leader of the opposing squadron was a German named Ernst Udet.

They tried very hard to kill one another.

But always they had that respect which a good, strong fighter has for another one, even though they be mortal enemies. The air fighters seemed to have that respect for one another.

News Reaches Germany.
Eddie Rickenbacker would be up in the air with a fighting plane again if his country were in war and they'd say his 51 years were not too many.

And no doubt Ernst Udet would be up in a plane now, if his years weren't too many. They'd be shooting at one another again, he and Rickenbacker, if the years hadn't added up on them.

Somehow, over in Germany, Ernst Udet learned about the plane that crashed near Atlanta on a foggy, dark night. And he learned that his old enemy, Eddie Rickenbacker, was hurt. So, he said to himself:

"Well, that fellow tried to shoot me out of the sky and I tried to shoot him. But he was a good fighter and it's too bad he was hurt. So, I will just send him a cable and say I hope he gets well."

Germans' Second Ace.
And so that's how it happened that Eddie Rickenbacker got, among the ten thousand messages which came to him, one which came from his old foe of the World War No. 1, Ernst Udet. He hasn't seen it, but he will.

Eddie Rickenbacker got messages from a great many persons in high positions. There were a lot of those among the 10,000 he got. But the one from Ernst Udet was the most unusual of them all. It is a bit unusual when a fellow you've tried your best to shoot out of the sky sends you a message hoping you get well.

Eddie was handling a fighting plane for about a year. Udet was in for four years. He was Germany's second ace, second only to Baron Richthofen. Maybe he was greater. He lived through it.

Germany listened when he said that war planes would be the big

Bremen, Emden Also Blasted in Heavy Attacks

British Use New Night Fighters To Destroy 11 Nazi Bombers.

By The United Press.
LONDON, March 14.—British bombers struck their hardest blow of the war on Germany's great port and second largest city of Hamburg last night, leaving great areas in flaming ruins exceeding even the damage wrought 24 hours earlier, the air ministry announced.

(Radio stations in northern and western Germany, including Berlin, ceased broadcasting tonight, indicating the RAF had renewed its attacks on German objectives.)

Bremen also was attacked again and simultaneous raids were carried out on Emden, airbases and oil plants in Holland and German ships off the Frisian islands.

The air ministry was able to announce, as it had done only yesterday, that the combined raids constituted the "greatest air attack of the war" for the Royal Air Force.

New RAF Record.
While the RAF bomber command was setting a new record in northwestern Germany, new British night fighters fighting off Nazi raiders at home also hung up a new record by shooting down in a single night 11 enemy bombers.

Two others were destroyed, by other means, for a record-breaking total of 13 and a bag of 32 in four nights.

The air ministry said the heaviest part of the attack on Hamburg was concentrated between 10:30 p. m. and 1:30 a. m., although the last bombers did not leave their targets until after 4 a. m.

"Within the first three hours so much damage was done that it was difficult to pick out details on the ground because of the glare of fires and the clouds of smoke over the city," the ministry said.

Report Huge Fires.
RAF pilots returning from Germany reported great fires raging in the Hamburg area and along the shores of the River Elbe near its mouth. In Hamburg itself shipyards, dockyards, wharves and warehouses were turned into flaming infernos.

It was the sixty-third bombing of Hamburg—the most battered city in Germany. Information from neutral embassies in Berlin has indicated that its great docks and shipyards long have been in ruins and the morale of the population has been shaken badly.

Not satisfied with the night's havoc, RAF planes during Friday afternoon carried out another offensive sweep over the channel coast and northern France, which also was bombed Thursday.

Numerous heavy explosions on the French coast were heard from the cover area.

In addition to the damage inflicted by the RAF during the night, the air ministry said a Beaufort torpedo plane torpedoed a 3,000-ton enemy vessel off the Frisians, only 24 hours after another British torpedo plane reportedly sank a German destroyer in the Skagerrak.

The RAF attacks on German targets—and the Luftwaffe forays against Britain—were made in brilliant moonlight, as on the previous night.

Belgrade Still Defies Demand Of Nazis That She Join Axis

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 14.—(AP)—A projected flight to Berlin by Yugoslavia's leaders was postponed today, and despite the enormous and continuing pressure of the Germans and their partners, this country still remained outside the Axis.

Premier Cvetkovic and Foreign Minister Cincarkovic had been scheduled to leave in the morning.

Noon came, and with it the explanation "maybe Monday." Later, the day of their probable departure was put at Wednesday. By nightfall, Yugoslav informants mentioned no date.

A report that Berlin had refused even to discuss Yugoslavia's proposed compromise—that she not be required actually to join the Axis at once, but merely to declare her friendship with the notion of signing up later after trying to appease pro-British sentiment here—appeared to have changed everything.

The German response to this effort of Regent Prince Paul and his advisers was understood to have been an objection that a mere declaration of friendship would not contain the essential "military clause"—presumably a clause requiring Yugoslavia to demobilize her army and give the Nazis right of way to strike at Greece if they so decided.

To this Yugoslavia was understood to have replied that acceptance of such a clause would amount to the same thing as formally joining the Axis now, and thus was no compromise at all.

Woman Slain And Buried in Shallow Grave

Wife of Wealthy Canadian Is Killed in St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—Sheriff Todd Tucker today charged two St. Petersburg taxi drivers with first degree murder and said they admitted killing Mrs. Ruth Rawlins, 35-year-old wife of a wealthy, retired Canadian metallurgist, taking her body 115 miles in a cab and burying it in a shallow, roadside grave near Gainesville, Fla.

Police Chief E. D. Vaughn and Detective Chief John S. Siers said the taxi drivers claimed Mrs. Rawlins was slain during a drinking party in one of the men's apartment Wednesday night. They wrapped her body in a blanket, the officers said, carried it down stairs to a taxi and drove to an isolated spot 10 miles north of Gainesville where they buried it in a grave they dug only two or three feet deep.

The men were listed as Frank B. Hogan, 27, and Earl J. Allen, alias Joseph Carlin, 35. Siers said the taxi drivers claimed Mrs. Hogan signed a four-page confession in which he claimed that he watched while Allen killed the woman by hitting her with a heavy wine bottle and garroting her with a lamp cord.

The detective chief also said that Allen confessed participation in the crime, but claimed that Hogan killed the woman by hitting her with a hammer.

The two taxi drivers were arrested at Brooksville yesterday, apparently while driving back to St. Petersburg. Sheriff Neil Law said his deputies took the pair into custody when they halted the cab on the highway and found it was stained with blood.

James Rawlins, husband of the slain woman, said he notified St. Petersburg police when his wife failed to return home Wednesday night. He said he knew of no reason for the slaying.

Plan To Aid Needy Counties Offered

Appointment of a five-man commission by Governor Talmadge to study the losses to county governments from homestead exemptions and recommend to the next legislature suggestions to aid the needy counties was proposed yesterday in a resolution offered in the house by Representatives W. M. Lester, of Richmond, and Herschell Lovett, of Laurens. It would have authority to subpoena witnesses and hold hearings.

The resolution directed that the commission "study comparative costs and effectiveness of the several functions of government in the various counties" to give the general assembly necessary facts on costs of governments.

The commission would receive a per diem of $10 each and traveling expenses.

Britain Trains Special Troops For Invasions

Prepare for Day When Empire Will Challenge Nazis in Europe.

LONDON, March 14.—(AP)—Great Britain today disclosed that invasion troops of its own are being equipped against the day when the empire may challenge the Nazis on the European continent.

The hardest and ablest soldiers of the British and Allied armies are being assembled and especially trained for armored barges, each fitted out to carry 50 fighting men and protected by a shield of steel slatted with 18 portholes for guns, an observer said.

The details of the training and equipment of these English Channel shock troops cannot be published. Nevertheless it is permissible to report that they have extraordinary firepower and in a recent test members of these units made a forced march of 20 miles and were able to charge a hill at the end of the maneuver.

All are trained to get along on from 24 to 48 hours without sleep and to live for days on minimum rations.

Snow Is Spread Through Rockies

By The Associated Press. Stormy conditions, centered over Arizona, spread slight snow and rains through the Rocky mountains and westward to California Friday. Most of the flurries were in the upper Rockies, the rain centering over California, besieged by recent downpours, and New Mexico and Arizona.

Temperatures dropped over a big part of the country's eastern half, driving freezing weather nearly to the Gulf and the south Atlantic coast. The weather moderated slightly from Texas to the Canadian border and in the northeast.

The major changes in temperatures included a 13-degree climb to 20 at Buffalo, N. Y., an 11-degree fall to 34 at Charleston, S. C., a 10-degree drop to 26 at Memphis and to 30 at Birmingham, Ala.

31 Loan Firms Stand Accused By Grand Jury

Fulton Group Returns 3 New Indictments in Probe.

The Fulton county grand jury yesterday returned three new indictments and brought to 31 the number of firms charged with usury in the current probe of local money-lending outfits.

At the same time the jury, in a special presentment issued while still in session, voted defeat of pending legislation in the general assembly which would, if enacted into law, "double the interest rate which these small loan companies may legally charge."

The grand jury referred to senate bill No. 133 and house bill No. 281.

"It is our opinion that the passage of such law would definitely aggravate the evil," the presentment read.

Firms and their officials indicted yesterday for allegedly charging illegal interest rates were:

H. L. Flowers, J. E. Jones, V. Flowers and E. O. Crowe, trading as Hudson Purchasing Company, and A. B. Herbert, four counts.

Fidelity Investment Company and W. B. Ragsdale, four counts. State Finance Company, E. W. Morrison, W. H. Edwards and I. S. Odell, four counts.

Indictments drawn against two other firms were held up because of absence of witnesses, but will be considered at a later session, it was stated.

CIO, AFL Clash On Housing Plan

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP) Spokesmen for the AFL and the CIO today gave sharply conflicting opinions to a senate committee on legislation to insure mortgages on $100,000,000 of defense housing for crowded industrial centers.

But Gardner H. Wales, appearing for the rival CIO housing group, urged senate approval of the measure, testifying that "millions of persons now living in sub-standard homes would be able to finance the monthly payments on a properly built, low-cost home such as is proposed."

Davison-Paxon Backbone Club Holds Dinner

29 New Members of Organization Are Given Service Pins.

One hundred and 53 employees who have been with the Davison-Paxon Company for 10 years or longer were guests last night at the annual dinner of the firm's "Backbone Club," held in the tearoom of the department store.

Raymond H. Kline, president of the company and organizer of the club, was toastmaster and presented pins to 29 new members of the club. Twenty employees were presented with 10-year service pins, six received 15-year service pins and three received 20-year service pins.

New Member. Harold L. Ebersole, secretary of the company, assisted Kline. A new member of the "Backbone Club," so named because the veteran employees are the backbone of the organization, is Charles H. Jagels, vice president and general manager.

Jagels has been associated with the Macy organization for 18 years, although he has been connected with the Atlanta store only about a year. Guests included J. H. Ferguson, night watchman, who recently retired after 24 years' service.

Eighty per cent of the membership of the "Backbone Club" were with Davison-Paxon Company when the firm moved into its present building in March, 1927. Those receiving 20-year service pins were:

Lillian Evans, Lena Davis and Edith Tarrant.

Those receiving 15-year service pins were:

Five Divisions Cut to Pieces by Greek Army

Benito Mussolini 'Covered With Shame,' Athens Reports.

ATHENS, March 14.—(AP)—The Greeks said tonight that their stalwart defense against a furious Italian offensive had cut up five Fascist divisions in the last few days and that Benito Mussolini, who allegedly ordered the drive, must go back to Rome from Albania "covered with shame."

(Axis sources in Budapest tonight said they had reports from Sofia that peace in the Italo-Greek war might be expected soon, the United Press reported.)

For several days Greek dispatches from the front, based on reported disclosures by Italian prisoners, have said that Il Duce was at the battlefield, exhorting his men to deliver a decisive victory by Saturday.

It was evident, nevertheless, that strong British aerial reinforcement was being given to the Greeks on the central front, for an RAF communiqué said 14 Italian bombers were downed in the Kifissia sector yesterday.

As for Mussolini, the Greeks said he had been at Tirana, the Albanian capital, since yesterday and expected to depart tomorrow—six days after he ordered the big offensive.

U. S. Seeks Tax From Owners Of Port Bonds

Action May Show If City, State Issues Can Be Taxed.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP) The Treasury tonight began a "test action" intended ultimately to prove that the federal government has constitutional power to tax the income from state and municipal securities.

The step was a formal claim against seven holders of bonds of the Port of New York Authority for federal income taxes on the interest obtained by them on the bonds.

A Treasury statement pointed out that the administration has frequently asked congress to subject future issues of state and local bonds to the federal income tax, and said:

"Treasury officials feel that the silence of congress on the income tax status of obligations of the Port of New York Authority and similar corporations has left the government no alternative but to proceed in the present case."

The action was identified as only the first phase of the campaign. It involves solely the constitutionality of taxing the income from securities of quasi-governmental corporations such as the Port of New York Authority.

"If the courts," the Treasury said, "agree with the Treasury on this point, they will be faced squarely with the broader constitutional question of the immunity of state and municipal securities from federal taxation."

Its operating radius is between 500 and 800 miles, with a landing speed of 65 to 70 miles an hour.

The BC-1 is armored, but its guns are for defensive work only as the squadron's job is observation and liaison work exclusively, being used to observe the enemy, for photographic work for aiding ground forces in adjusting artillery fire and for intelligence observation of all types. The squadron does not operate separately but in conjunction with ground tactical units and with corps and divisional troops.

Italians Fleeing Before Strong British Attack

20,000 'on Run'; Empire Forces Closing in on Ethiopian Capital.

CAIRO, Egypt, March 14.—(AP) The British announced tonight they had 20,000 Italians and natives "on the run" northwest of Addis Ababa and were advancing on two other sides of the Ethiopian capital.

The Italian garrisons were said to be abandoning town after town in western Ethiopia.

In wild Golljam province Ethiopian "patriots," led by British regulars, were said in a communiqué to be at the gates of Debra Markos, 140 miles northwest of Addis Ababa, after a harrying pursuit from Buna.

To the west the British announced the reconquest of Asosa, near the Sudan border, and a continuing advance along the Mendi road. Mendi is about 7 miles east of Asosa and 240 miles west of Addis Ababa.

To the south other Ethiopians were advancing on Neghelli after occupying Yavello, 100 miles inside the border from Kenya.

South and west Africans, after occupying Italian Somaliland to the east, were aiding in this advance from the direction of Dolo. One column from Somaliland already had reached Daghahur, only 100 miles south of Jigjiga.

No change in troop positions in north Africa or Eritrea was reported, but the RAF announced a heavy attack Wednesday night on Tripoli, Zliten, near by, also was bombed, while in Eritrea railway bridges, troops and guns were attacked at Cheren.

Hotel Clerk Dies; Sixth Istanbul Bomb Victim

ISTANBUL, Turkey, March 14.—(AP)—The list of fatalities in the bombing of the Hotel Pera Palace last Tuesday reached six today with the death of the hotel's passport clerk.

The explosion presumably was aimed at the assassination of George W. Rendel, the former British minister to Bulgaria, but he escaped uninjured.

F. D. R. To Ask Broadening of Relief System

Increased Assistance to Poorer States Will Be Sought.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(UP)—President Roosevelt today revealed he will ask congress this spring to broaden the social security program to include more people and to increase benefits to the aged indigent in poorer states under the federal-state old age pension system.

Authoritative sources indicated he will place the plan before congress soon after it disposes of the pending $7,000,000,000 British aid bill.

The chief executive said he has given considerable thought to inadequacies of the social security program, but that he clings to the position he adopted when he first put it forward—that it must not be looked upon as a short cut to Utopia. He said it is much better for the government to make a little progress year by year in perfecting the plan.

He made it clear that he feels the present program is not sufficiently broad; that there are several millions of Americans, now excluded, who should be brought under it.

Mr. Roosevelt emphasized that there is a need for increasing old age pension benefits to the needy aged in poorer states. Such payments, he said, should be increased under a formula that would not make benefits so entirely dependent on the ability of states to match federal grants.

Rumania Will Draft All Over 12 for Work

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 14.—(AP)—All able-bodied Rumanians, 12 years of age and above, regardless of sex, will be drafted for agricultural labor under a decree issued today by the ministry of agriculture.

A Three Days' Cough is Your Danger Signal

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion.

Which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood glycerite by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permits rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

House Defeats Bill To Curb Labor Unions

Legislation to force labor unions to incorporate was defeated in the house yesterday by a vote of 72 for and 82 against, despite efforts of Representatives Roscoe Pickett Jr., of Pickens, and E. E. Yawn, of Dodge, co-sponsors of the bill, to compromise on some of the more drastic provisions. In debate several legislators expressed themselves as being in favor of restricting labor union activities, but doubted whether the measure proposed by Pickett and Yawn was the remedy. The house previously had passed a bill by Pickett and Yawn requiring labor unions to give 30 days' written notice of intention to call a strike. The defeated bill originally provided that all locals incorporate with a capital stock of $2,500, and pay a $1,000 fee before commencing business, but the latter amount was reduced by amendment to $500. The authors also proposed a limit of $25 on initiation fees and to restrict monthly dues to $4. Another amendment exempted railway employees and seasonal workers from the bill. Representative Benning M. Grice, of Bibb, contended the sponsors of the measures had gone "far astray" from the intent of the house in naming a committee to investigate labor conditions on national defense projects and insisted that nowhere did it mention national defense and would have the effect of strangling labor unions. Urging passage of the bill, Representative Walter Harrison, of Jenkins, said labor unions were "becoming too powerful" and added they should "have some rules to play by."

Representative J. B. Davis, of Coweta, labeled it a "vicious bill" and declared it would have the effect of driving out labor unions. Constitution Want Ads are go-getters for speedy merchandising results.

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 15, 1941.

Why Ignore Georgia?

For months past, and in still greater amounts in the near future, the federal government, through the National Defense Commission, has been spending money that runs into billions, in total, for the expansion of defense industries and for the creation of new manufacturing plants for the creation of the myriad essential products for our own armament program and for aid to Britain.

For some unaccountable reason, very little, if any, of this money has come to Georgia. Numbers of large projects in the form of Army training centers, of supply depots, hospitals and air training fields, true, are being established in Georgia. These, however, are at best but temporary creations which will have to be abandoned when the world crisis is over and the nation once again sets its economy upon a peacetime scale.

Georgia, and the south, badly need additional industrial enterprises. This is a situation long recognized, not only by economic and other experts, but by the federal government itself. Prior to the coming of the war emergency it was an accepted policy of the government to do all in its power to decentralize industry and to scatter, over the southeastern states, a multitude of small industries, in order to provide the now lacking balance between agriculture and industry, between the producer of products of the soil and the consumer.

Today, under the defense program, this essential need for the future economic stability of the nation seems to have been forgotten. True, a few desirable plants have been located in other southeastern states, in Alabama, Tennessee, the Carolinas, etc. But Georgia has been almost entirely overlooked in this respect.

Of course no loyal American, regardless of his pride in his own state and in his interest in her prosperity, would even request location of a war industry in that state if quicker, better and more efficient production could be achieved in some other. The situation today is one of pressing emergency. The fate of the world may hinge upon the difference of a day or two in the delivery of American-made planes and guns and shells and other implements of war to Britain. Nothing, no sectional or state pride, must be allowed to hinder, by one hour, work on such material.

But there are, in the equipment of modern armies and navies, many thousands of items of manufacture. In a single plane there are more than a thousand separate items which must be assembled from the scattered factories which make them.

Surely, out of all these, there are quite a number which could be more quickly, and better, made in a plant located in Georgia than anywhere else.

Establishment of such war plants here would, in all probability, mean they would remain here after the war is over. Adapting, undoubtedly, their products to the needs of peace, but contributing a permanent and badly needed asset to Georgia's industrial growth.

Georgia has an excellent representation in congress. There can be little doubt that, if Senators George and Russell, and the entire group of ten congressmen representing this state in the lower house, made reasonable request of the National Defense Commission at Washington, or other proper authorities, that some of the defense money now being spent on plant construction and plant expansion could be diverted to this state without an iota of injury or delay to the war emergency program as a whole.

Georgia is, above all, patriotic and loyal. No one in this state would willingly accept any benefit whatsoever at the cost of the national defense program or the aid to Britain efforts. Georgians give their first loyalty to their nation. Their second loyalty, however, is to their state and section. That is a very fierce loyalty. And Georgians are asking 'why, in this tremendous program of industrial expansion, their state is being treated like a stepchild.

In the March 11 issue of "Defense," official bulletin of the National Defense Commission, sion, 231 certificates of necessity for plant expansion, for defense purposes, are listed. All these were granted in the period from February 15 to 28. Among them all, only ten are for plants located in the southeast. Of these ten, only two are in Georgia.

Why?

Passed by the House

The lower house of the Georgia assembly has passed, by more than two-to-one vote, the bill designed to place the entire state in the eastern time zone. It will now be promptly transferred to the senate in order that that body may vote upon it before adjournment.

Georgia has for too long struggled against the inconveniences and handicap of a differing time in different sections of the state. Approximately two-thirds of the state is already on eastern time. The remainder is on central time and the one hour difference involved is the cause of never-ending confusion and trouble.

There is no reasonable excuse for this condition. Why one Georgian should have to go into astruse calculations whenever he wants to keep an engagement with a fellow-Georgian in a neighboring county or in a neighboring city has never been adequately made clear. No man can estimate the number of engagements which have been inadvertently broken or the number of hours of time that have been lost because of this anomalous state of affairs.

It is to be sincerely hoped that the senate will find time to remedy this time defect and, before adjournment, concur in the overwhelming house approval of the bill.

Then, when all the clocks in the state agree on the hour, Georgians will be able to intelligently conduct their business together and give a simple, straightforward answer to the oft-heard query, "What's the time o' day?"

Rehabilitation Pays Out

Proposed reorganization of the farm program of the national government, contains one proposal which should be rejected.

This proposal would place the supervision of the rehabilitation program under one department and the administration of funds under another.

It at once is apparent this would be unwise. The department which administers the money certainly should have supervision so that it might see that the money properly is used. The local county rehabilitation agent should, on the basis of the record made, be given every aid which will contribute to the success of the families being rehabilitated.

It is an accepted fact that it is cheaper to help families get re-established in farming than it is to provide relief for them in the cities.

Rehabilitation, counting all losses on loans, costs of supervision and every other item of expense, costs only about $72 per family per year. Within a few years most of them are self supporting.

The story of the 92,000 formerly distressed farm families who have been helped in the states of Georgia, Alabama, Florida and South Carolina, is a remarkable one.

The report recites that $55,000,000 has been loaned to these families to enable the new start and to carry them over when needed. This money was loaned for purchases of equipment, stock and to finance home and farm enterprises.

Rehabilitation supervisors work out management plans and work and crop programs.

Of the $55,000,000 loaned these families as of January 31, 1941, maturities of these loans amounted to $17,865,571. Payments received as of the same date were $17,865,000, or more than 100 per cent of the amount due.

This can mean but one thing—the rehabilitation program is working and is being efficiently handled. It should not be split up or disturbed.

"What is the Soviet position?" they cry—yet it all seems clear. Mighty Russia is ready for any eventuality, after this one.

A fair refugee, lately arrived, hasn't lived more than a week in one place in months. One might as well be the wife of a golf pro on the winter circuit.

They laughed, in Mexico City, when the famed Spanish bullfighter made nine unsuccessful stabs at the creature. It was like Thanksgiving, with father carving.

Georgia Editors Say:

LEARNING TO WALK.

(From The Moultrie Observer.)

We have been trying to teach those who travel in motor cars how to drive. It looks as if we will have to open a school to teach pedestrians the way to walk. Of the 800 who lost their lives in traffic accidents in Georgia last year, 200 of them were pedestrians. Very often the driver of the vehicle and the pedestrian who is hit and injured are both to blame. Too often it is the case that only the pedestrian is to blame. He walks in front of a car and an accident is unpreventable. The mules and horses, at first, were disposed to shy at automobiles, but now they pay no attention to them. Same with the dog and the cow. They have come to think the automobile should run the other way when they come into view. This is true with a lot of pedestrians. It is surprising to see so many of them cross streets without looking for danger in any direction. Evidently they feel that they have the right of way. More likely, they do not think at all. The children show signs of training, and they generally look both ways before crossing a highway or a street. The adults and the bicycle riders are, many of them, indifferent to the coming and going of automobiles and trucks. This may be the most difficult traffic problem that we will have to solve.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

CONTROL OF PRICES WASHINGTON, March 14.—In the last month men in key positions everywhere in the administration have grown more and more concerned about prices. One of those curious and apparently almost governmental ferments, which always seem to lead nowhere and always prove to be the prelude of action, is now in progress about prices. It does not take a very sharp intelligence to conclude that in a little time, when the price problem has grown more acute, price control will be resorted to. The control may be more or less extensive, more or less informal. But some system of control is clearly on the cards.

Thus far, the men in charge of the defense program have treated the price problem in a rather gingerly manner, formally setting prices only for second-hand machine tools. Indeed, the sole important voice now raised in Washington in favor of extensive price control is that of Bernard M. Baruch. But Baruch deserves attention. With vast experience in the last war, he also knows the current wartime picture, having been requested by the President to visit Washington weekly as a general White House and defense advisor. He is a man of high standing. Besides presenting his price theories to the President, Baruch has fortunately made them public, in an article in the Harvard Business Review.

"There is no system of price control that does not have its shortcomings," he wrote; "but no method has yet been found that has so few as does that of placing a ceiling over all prices, above which they cannot rise, but below which they are free to fall. When industry has the capacity and price-fixing is admittedly necessary, this ceiling should be clamped down."

UNIQUE PLAN In talking to the President and the other men in charge of the defense program, Baruch has made no secret of his conviction that the time for "clamping the ceiling down is pretty nearly at hand." He gets on well with Leon Henderson, head of the old defense commission's price division, and the old star head of the new agency, formed out of the price division and other defense commission remnants, which will soon take charge of the defense program's economic aspects. Under the circumstances, it may be presumed that Baruch and Henderson agree as to fundamentals. But Henderson, like the President, is extremely reluctant even to consider embarking on general price-fixing now.

Accordingly, the absence of Henderson, who has been taking a holiday for his health, his subordinates have discussed an alternative plan which is now the center of the price-fixing ferment. Briefly stated, it is to persuade key industries to lower prices slightly, while maintaining wages at the same level. The notion is that industrialists will like the plan because wages will remain stationary, while labor will be satisfied with the guarantee against rising living costs.

In theory, indeed, the plan is very pretty. It would not be economically disruptive. It would certainly halt the inflationary spiral of rising prices, rising wages, rising prices, rising wages, and higher wages demanded to pay the prices. Unfortunately, it has too much flavor of the wish dream about it. While members of the Henderson division think their plan will be amiably received by industrialists and labor leaders, officials of the priorities and production division of the OPM think business will never take it, and the disinclination of labor is even more strongly expressed. Sidney Hillman, labor's spokesman, says the steel situation neatly exemplifies the practical defects of the Henderson division's plan. The steel workers want a substantial rise in wages, asserting that U. S. Steel made an ample profit last year to justify such an increase. The steel manufacturers reply that if the increase is much more than a quarter of the steel-workers' demand, it will wipe out the profits of marginal steel producers and force a rise in steel prices. Here the upward spiral can already be seen in its first stage. And although the steel price is the basic industrial price in this country, no one seems to have a very definite idea of how to handle the matter.

LIAISON SCHEMES The guess may be hazarded that policy in such matters will never be more than improvised, so long as production problems, labor problems and price problems are all treated in separate compartments. At the moment a search is on for the best form of liaison between the OPM and the new agency Henderson is to head. One scheme is to make Henderson an ex-officio, non-voting member of the OPM. Another is to name a liaison committee to work with Henderson, composed of representatives of the four OPM branches, labor, production, purchasing and priorities. Unfortunately the liaison effected by either scheme is likely to be pretty tenuous.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

In Adjoining Columns.

One day this week two stories appeared in adjoining columns of my favorite morning newspaper. Let's consider one of them first. The headline read, "Fate of Polish Girl, Atlanta's Kin, Unknown."

That story told of a young girl, cousin of an Atlanta businessman. The girl lived in Poland and before the Nazi rape and occupation of that country the young girl had eagerly anticipated a future in Atlanta. All arrangements had been completed for her journey and admission into this country.

Then came the German blitzkrieg against Poland in September, 1939. Since then the girl's kinsman in Atlanta has heard no word of her fate. This week he abandoned hope. What has become of her, whether she is alive or dead, no one in America, none of her friends or relatives anywhere, knew.

Just one little individual story among hundreds of thousands of tragedies and disappearances which have come wherever the Nazi hand has reached.

The Other Story

In the adjoining column the headline read, "150 Farm Club Boys, Girls To Be Feted Here."

This story told how more than 150 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America boys and girls will be honored at a special dinner to be given by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with Atlanta's Sixth Annual Fat Cattle Show. The dinner must consist exclusively of Georgia products.

These boys and girls, typical Georgia youngsters, are to be honored for their achievements in cattle raising. Each of them is the proud possessor of a fine animal raised by them alone from the calf. They have done this with interest and enthusiasm as voluntary training and experience in that better farming which the coming generation must know for the future of Georgia.

Independent, free, capable, happy young Americans finding fun and profit in their own way of life.

Let's Keep That Way of Life.

The two stories, it seems to me, paint contrasting pictures, as different as night and day, of the prospects for youth in the shadowed Europe of today and in the sunshine of America.

In the one, imagination paints a picture of savage cruelty, of death, intolerance, of hatred and of blighted youth. The other tells of brave, free youth, achieving worth-while things in their own freely chosen occupation.

It is unnecessary to go on. You can fill the detail of the contrasting pictures for yourselves. But, I just like to ask one question. Is any effort, any sacrifice, too great for us to make to retain the American, democratic way of life for our young people and the generations which are to follow?

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Spirit of The Army FORT BRAGG, Fayetteville, N. C. March 14.—No doubt it was reaching for the moon to wish that politics and the civil government were imbued with the same spirit of honor and governed by the standards of responsibility that rule the lives of the regular officers of the Army, the Navy and the Marine Corps. In that case, in some important respects, we would have something very like perfection, because graft by an officer is so rare as to be scandalous when it is revealed. Not only is the grafter himself disgraced when he is caught and convicted, but ever his family partakes of his humiliation and his name is passed on from generation to generation of officers. So few have been who have been dismissed in shame for betrayal of their trust that their names and the circumstances of their wrongdoing can be remembered offhand.

One officer who was convicted many years ago has never ceased to fight to clear his name.

By contrast, the grafter in politics seldom is even reproached by the people and often is admired for getting away with it year after year.

An officer of the Army, for example, who paid an income tax far in excess of his total salary and who obviously was accepting bribes for companies selling goods to the army or gifts from subordinates as the price of commendations leading to their promotion would not be allowed to brazen things through as the mayors of three of our principal cities have done in comparable circumstances in recent years.

The officer would have to explain his income not only to the Internal Revenue but to his superiors, and even if he were not convicted he probably would be forced to resign or, anyway, retire.

A Gift Of Cigars

A really careful officer would think twice about accepting as little as a box of cigars or a case of liquor from anyone whose motives might be doubtful. If he should permit any member of his family to write insurance or completion bonds for private companies doing government work under his authority his honor and his standing among his colleagues certainly would suffer. I am not sure he could be tried on charges in such cases, but I suppose a scrupulous officer—and most of them are that—could be expected to place on record somewhere his repudiation of the transaction.

In singling out the regular service here I have no intention to suggest that the reserve, guard or emergency officers are dishonest or less honorable as a group. But they do come from civil life, in which the standards—in business and the professions as well as in politics—are less severe.

Consequently, if irregularities due to dishonesty, as distinguished from bad judgment, are discovered in the inevitable investigation some day of the vast spending which is now in progress, militarized civilians probably will be at fault. For it is a fact—say what we will—that under the spoils system the very honesty of the people has been corrupted to such a degree that practices which, by service standards, are plainly dishonorable pass without challenge.

Rather Decent Pay

The officer gets rather decent pay but is a poor man by comparison with civilians of the social set with whom he associates in his middle years. The civilian, however, has to take economic risks, whereas the officer has a steady job for life at a steadily, if slowly, rising rate of pay. His social standing, written into the terms of his original hire. When he is through, unless he has voluntarily quit or has been fired out for cause, he has his pension, and all the while he gets some extras in the way of housing and discounts which pad his pay. But over a whole career his life certainly is not luxurious, and Army wives, unless they have private incomes, are not competitors for the title of best-dressed women.

Yet, patriotic as they are and honest to a spectacular degree by comparison with politicians, they can't give good government under a free system, because in that case they would have to enter politics. And while it certainly is true that they play politics within their own circle, our system generally shields them from the temptations and ravages of our outer, or public, politics. They are, in a sense, wards of the government, and where they do govern they do so by power received from the political government and by rules and methods which could not be imposed on civilians, except in emergencies such as civil commotion.

Possibly I contradicted myself in wishing that our public politicians were as honest as the regular officers and admitting that the officers themselves couldn't be that honest if they had to cope with politics. Perhaps so, but I could be willing to settle for just a trace of that honesty in public affairs.

Discovery

At early morning when urban folk have not begun to rise, They like to greet the dawn of day With eager, radiant eyes. And she will clean her little house And have such shining doors. She'll do the dishes with a song And she will go along with him Through fields of waving grain, And greet with joy and gladness The sunshine and the rain. And they shall walk the long straight rows To each growing thing, And always looking upward. A prayer to Him they'll sing. Oh, they will be no counting doubt No feverish, bitter care. For they'll find Him waiting there. They'll find Him waiting there. JANNELLE JONES.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

STORY FROM ENGLAND Stories of the war continue to multiply. Perhaps the best one, illustrating the patience and endurance of the British people, is this one:

The Lord wanted to end the war. He sent for Mussolini, Hitler and Churchill. He put a whale in a large swimming pool. He told the three that the one who could catch it would be given his choice of who should win the war and how it should be settled. Hitler shot at the whale. The whale absorbed the bullets and swam on, unperturbed.

Mussolini baited a large hook and tried to get the whale to bite. It wouldn't.

It was Churchill's turn. He sat down and began to dip out the water with a spoon. He sat down and began to dip out the water with a spoon. He sat down and began to dip out the water with a spoon.

England now must make it to survive, not win. All thoughts are concentrated on lasting out the spring and summer as the cities die; as the food grows less; as the strain increases in weight.

The story is not inept. England must win this war by a process as lengthy, as exhausting and as harassing as emptying a pool with a spoon.

This country can help now only a little. Within a few months it can help a great deal. But only for the survival effort of the summer. Shipping is taking a very bad beating as the Germans' swarm of small raiders, planes, and submarines take their toll. In the first World War, England had bases in Ireland from which to operate. This war finds them with but a few in North Ireland.

PEOPLE CAN LAUGH Stories come through indicating that the peoples of Europe still can laugh. The human heart, or mind, is a curious thing. It wants to be happy, merry and to enjoy living. Yet, it can be directed into laughter and misery.

I recall sitting in a coffee house in Vienna, shortly after Hitler had taken it, and hearing whispered the latest Austrian stories. Robert Best, of the United Press, and a girl who worked in the U. P. office were relating them.

One was anti-British because the British were in disfavor then for they had not resisted the German occupation of Austria. It went like this:

Q. "Why does the sun never set on the British empire?"

A. "Because not even God himself will trust the British in the dark."

Most of them were anti-German and it was fun to whisper them while the Nazi storm troopers sat about drinking coffee and lording it over the Austrians—sort of a strutting-sitting-down attitude.

Some of them may be old, now, but they laughed best at stories like these:

"Hitler, Goering and Goebbels were driving in a car. A flock of sheep were lying in the road. Goebbels made them a speech. They did not move. Goering, all impatience, got out and shouted and stamped at them. They raised their heads but did not get up. Hitler got out and spoke a few words and they all got up and ran off the road."

"How did you do it?" asked Goering and Goebbels.

"I have been telling 80,000,000 sheep what to do for years. Why should a small flock bother me?"

Another one went thusly:

Goering had got into Heaven and one day when God got up off the throne, Goering jumped into it and would not get up. He sat there for days while the angels bit their nails and were very perturbed. One day a small fellow, of no great moment, came to the gate.

"Be off with you," said St. Peter. "I have no time to talk with you. You are not much good. And besides, Heaven is in an awful state. Goering is sitting in God's throne and we all are in a stew."

"I can fix it in a moment if you will let me in."

"Very well, then, but if you don't I will send you to the deepest hell."

The little fellow ran through the golden gates and was gone but a few minutes. He came back and said:

"It's all right now. God is back on his throne."

"How did you do it?" asked St. Peter, pleased as pie.

"It was simple. I just said, 'Mr. Goering, the photographers are waiting outside,' and he jumped right up."

THE POWER OF A LAUGH There is less and less laughter. There are more and more lines to be seen in the faces of people one meets every day.

One of the best of Hans Christian Andersen's stories was that of the great and kind dictator who was persuaded by some tailors that they could make a cloth so fine and so beautiful it could not be seen by the common people. So, they cut and sewed away at their cloth and finally announced the suit was ready.

A great parade was had. All the people had been warned that they could not see this suit, being common, and must not look at it. But one little girl did look. And she cried out, laughing:

"He hasn't got anything on. He's naked and has fooled us all these long, hard years."

It may be one day, that the common people of Germany will look at Hitler and this cloth out of which he is cutting a new order for the world to wear, and say, grimly and yet with winking laughter: "He hasn't got anything on. He's naked and has fooled us all these long, hard years."

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

My dear Louise: While kids of your age listen to news broadcasts and read war news with keen interest and understanding, the friends of freedom need not worry about the future. I lift my hat to you all.

And my heart is with you when you yearn to scalp the enemy agent and foolish patriots who take advantage of America's freedom to scatter deceptive propaganda and otherwise serve those who would destroy freedom.

When a radio station tells the world that a ship loaded with bombers for England is sailing this afternoon, thus deserving the grateful thanks of lurking submarines, your resentment is natural and justified.

And when a congressman fills pages of the Congressional Record with the details of our defense plans, thus revealing to our enemies the military secrets that spies have long endeavored to discover, your tears of helpless fury are understandable and commendable.

But when you demand a gag for these offenders, you are on dangerous ground where I can't follow you.

Your reaction is natural. We all feel tempted to use force in suppressing those who won't agree with us. The Pilgrims came over here to find freedom of conscience, and promptly began to torture and banish those who disagreed with them.

But when you try to silence people, it means censorship—the first step of all tyrants. No dictator tries to enslave the people until he gags the press and abolishes free speech.

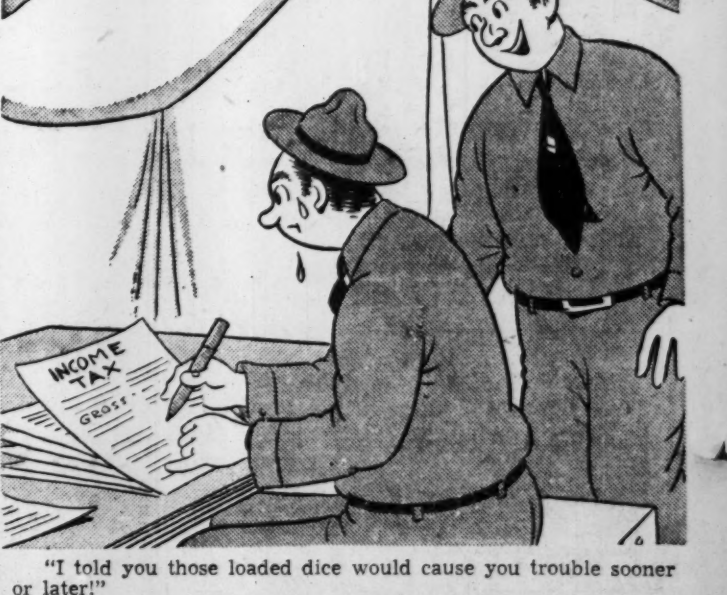

We have a choice between two evils, and the question is, which will damage us more? Enemy agents must be jailed. They have no rights. But the loose talk of the disloyal and foolish can only annoy or enrage us; it can't change the course of events or destroy freedom while 90 per cent of us remain loyal and do our duty.

But censorship will end the very freedom we are trying to save. It falls, like the rain, on the just and the unjust. And it is used to conceal blunders and dangers and stupidities, and the people live in fear, knowing only that evil things flourish in darkness.

You must give freedom to all; for when you deny it to others, you destroy your own.

Love, DAD.

On Form 1040-A.

MARCH 15
March the fifteenth, unhappy day
To fill out form Ten-Forty-A!
To make that annual report
Or meet Old Uncle Sam in court.
"Instruction Ten and Schedule D,"
It's all a wondrous mystery,
This calculating what I made—
"Deductions for insurance paid"
"Less income paid on bonds, tax free,"
And "Contributions, Schedule C."
What can be claimed as lost on bets
Or cancelled off as worthless debts.
We struggle through the mental storm
Until we have the finished form
Then, horrible to contemplate,
We find in checking "Item Eight"
A terrible mistake we made
In everylooking "Interest Paid."

But summing all things up we find
The greatest tax was on the mind.

"Streets Beautiful."

Stranger picked me up out at Emory University a few days ago and gave me a ride to town through Druid Hills. He didn't know me and I didn't know him and we never thought to introduce ourselves, so he won't recognize himself in this.

"Pretty out here, isn't it," he remarked. I agreed with that. "These little winding roads so neat and clean," he continued, reaching into the glove compartment of his car. He extracted a cigarette carton, removed the last package—and tossed the empty carton into the street.

I couldn't say anything, being a guest. But I wondered how long those pretty streets would stay neat and clean if everybody tossed some bit of refuse out of a car window.

Which reminds me of a complaint I received in the mail not long ago. By a suburban resident who drives to town through Northside drive.

Quite a lot of that drive is through unoccupied territory, with steep banks beside the road. This writer complained of the garbage—not mere wastepaper but kitchen garbage—dumped over the bank by people in cars.

"I recognized the chauffeur of one family rich enough to build a city crematory without feeling it," he said. "But they send their chauffeur to dump the garbage beside Northside drive. I live near them and I'm far from rich—but I get a good garbage and ashes pickup service for 75 cents a month. And I pay it cheerfully."

"Right Next Door."

Down in Albany an argument has been going on—aired before the city commissioners—over a softball park.

Softball fans want to keep on playing in their old park. Residents of the neighborhood protested. The players and fans went out—for this year.

"Softball belongs in the stadium—not in anybody's front yard," said a protesting official. "Which brings up a problem which has caused fuses over more important undertakings than softball."

The Farmers' Market, for instance. Property owners "right next door" opposed it bitterly. I'm not entering into the argument—but it's hard to find a site in a city which isn't right next door to somebody.

Progress is progress and business is business, if I may be subtle. I like Atlanta's many groups of chain stores and what not—little business communities. I wish there were one in easy walking distance of our house.

But I don't want it next door. Neither does anybody else—unless it will raise the value of his property so he can sell it and move.

We all want stores and filling stations within convenient distance. But not just beyond our hedge. When we get Atlanta's traffic problem settled perhaps we can settle this one. The zoning law might fix it—if the zoning law were not altered every now and then.

He is a University of Georgia graduate who is just sitting around, praying for the present session of the legislature to end so that he might go fishing. He looks at this participation in the law-making of the state as primarily a good place to meet and renew old friendships. But he also likes the educational aspects of the session. He has two children and two grandchildren.

France with the AEF, he was delighted when the Armistice was signed. We had just come out of the Argonne and the outfit was shot to pieces. There was talk of a new offensive, against Metz, to start November 15. Signing of the Armistice brought an end to the war and meant that all of us, fortunate to be alive, would be returned home in due course.

"But today, looking back down the corridor of history, I believe it was a mistake to have ended the war on November 11. Had we marched right on into Berlin and given the Germans a taste of what war is in one's own community, that nation probably would not have listened to a man like Hitler. Maybe we made a big mistake in stopping the war too soon."

That World's Fair

More discussion in legislature about all those thousands of bills introduced—by somebody—on account of the Georgia exhibit at the first New York World's Fair. Rent on the building was never paid. Thousands in hotel bills—charged to somebody—were never paid. Total of around $41,000.

It was ever thus. It appears the state of Georgia never authorized anything and isn't responsible.

It was a matter of "voluntary subscriptions." Which are all right if a good check comes with the subscription. But a name on a petition buys no groceries, pays no bills.

Personally, I'm shedding no tears over the plight of the creditors. People in business who don't credit and who's going to pay the bills are going broke sooner or later, anyway. So why not now? better to know whom they're

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Sunday's lesson, Luke 22:1-38, is the sublimely beautiful passage in Luke on the Lord's Supper. The golden text is a passage from I Corinthians, 11:26: "As often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do show the Lord's death till He come."

The record of Crucifixion Week omits any reference to what took place on Wednesday. One may be permitted to imagine that Jesus spent that day in complete retirement, most probably in the Bethany home and in the hills round about Jerusalem, in prayer and resting. Perhaps He met the disciples for one further word of counsel and cheer.

Thursday was the day of final fellowship with the disciples. Early that afternoon Jesus sent Peter and John from Bethany into Jerusalem to secure the guest chamber and prepare for the Passover. Near the sunset hour he walked with His other disciples into Jerusalem to the upper room. As the feast progressed, He predicted His betrayal and identified Judas as the traitor. He then instituted the Lord's Supper.

"This do in remembrance of Me," said our blessed Lord, as He took the bread and wine and blessed it and gave it to His disciples.

The bread, a symbol of His broken body; the wine, a symbol of His shed blood—these picture the Redeeming Christ. And He asks to be remembered as the Redeeming Christ. He does not ask to be remembered by His miracles, but by His death on Calvary's cross. It was for that purpose He came. It was by the way of the cross that He conquered the power of sin and brought life and immortality into light for all who will receive Him as Saviour and Lord.

The Passover was instituted by Moses, as a memorial to the deliverance from the bondage of Egypt. It was based on sacrifice, substitution, sustenance, salvation and service. I can not discuss the vital significance of these terms for lack of space. The Lord's Supper was instituted by Jesus, as a memorial to the deliverance from the bondage of sin based on sacrifice, substitution, sustenance, salvation and service.

The Lord's Supper is a hallowed memory and a blessed prophecy—a remembrance of His atonement for the sins of the world, a prophecy of His triumphant return as the reigning Lord of life.

Evening, our Lord foresaw the danger of His people forgetting the primary symbolism of His broken body and poured out blood, and asks us to perpetrate this ordinance of His church as a cherished token by which we shall ever think of Him as our risen, risen, reigning Redeemer and Lord. So may it be.

'Fifty-Fifty' Plan at Parley

Senator Park Describes Proposal for Mixed Juries.

The drive by the women of the Georgia Democratic party to obtain the "fifty-fifty" plan of representation in the state party organization, as well as women jurors and women in government positions, was discussed by state and national leaders yesterday at the monthly meeting of the Georgia Women's Democratic Club.

James Peters, of Manchester, state Democratic chairman, reasserted his decision to bring the "fifty-fifty" plan before the next meeting of the Democratic executive committee, and declared that "bringing women into any organization is a refining process." The plan calls for equal representation of women on the executive committee and the district, county, and precinct committees.

In describing his bill for women jurors, Senator J. B. Park, of Greensboro, praised the work of women in other fields. Mrs. Rose Forrester, of Washington, D. C., commissioner of conciliation of the United States Department of Labor, who is in Atlanta, to address the Georgia Association of Women Lawyers next Tuesday, spoke briefly on the work of women in governmental conciliatory work.

"Mrs. Fannie May Dabney presided; Mrs. Jessica Davenport Watts, legislative chairman, and Mrs. Dolly Lee Butler, legal chairman, were in charge of the program," and Mrs. Reade Ashurst introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. LaVert Mitchell furnished the music.

PROTESTS UNTRUTHFUL ACCUSATION

Editor Constitution: The following is a copy of a letter sent yesterday to Senator H. B. Edwards: "Many people, both Jew and non-Jew, were surprised and distressed to read yesterday of your very unfair reference to the Jewish people, made before the senate, by inferring that they are guilty of the usurious practices which all of us are interested in stamping out in our city and state.

Surely you know that of the 29 firms indicted by the Fulton grand jury during the last 10 days for these practices—not one of them is of the Jewish faith, and to my knowledge there is not even one Jewish firm in Atlanta engaged in the salary-buyn business.

It is unworthy of any man who occupies a place in our government as high as yours, to unfairly reflect on any group of Americans. I feel you should publicly retract this slurring inference about our people and afford it as much publicity as you can to undo some of the damage you did.

I feel that you will act promptly, as a matter of justice and fairness.

GAMBLING JOINTS HIT BY GEORGIA SOLDIER

Editor Constitution: As a member of Battery H, Calhoun, Georgia's unit of the 214th C. A. (A.A.), I was inducted into regular service for a year of training. We have been stationed at Camp Stewart since December 6, 1941 and since that time, civilians with a Yankee accent to their voices have been pouring into this section from the north.

Just outside the Army Post these civilians are hurriedly throwing up shabby-looking buildings to house their demoralizing businesses. In these places are numerous slot machines and a variety of other gambling devices to take the money of the many soldier boys who need the money for a more worthy cause.

Yes, it's a fact, the soldiers don't have to patronize these places unless they want to, but as long as they are allowed to operate, the temptation to give their money away at such places will be hard to overcome. I think, for the benefit of the thousands of soldiers stationed at Camp Stewart, it is high time some effort is made to rid these places of all "mechanical bandits" and so-called "legal" robbery machines.

Threats Charged By Mrs. Walker

KEY WEST, Fla., March 14.—(P)—Trying again for a divorce, Mrs. James J. Walker testified today that her husband "on some occasions threatened to hit me." "He would yell and scream and jump up and down and call me everything in a hearing in chambers," the former Betty Compton, English showgirl, added.

Purples Lose To Roosevelt In First, 33-20

Washington Team Pulls Away in Second Half of Contest.

DURHAM, N. C., March 14.—(AP) Roosevelt High, of Washington, D. C., and Seniors High, of Greenville, S. C., won semi-final games tonight and the right to meet tomorrow night in finals of the Duke-Durham High school basketball tournament.

Roosevelt High eliminated Lafayette High, of Lexington, Ky., 33-16, after the Greenville team had edged out John Marshall High, of Richmond, Va., 26 to 25.

In first round play Roosevelt High eliminated Boys' High, of Atlanta, Ga., this morning, 33-20, and Greenville last night defeated Roanoke (Va.) High, 34-32.

Roosevelt held 14-to-12 lead at half-time in its game with the Purples, Ciang taking the scoring honors for the winners with 12 points. Castleberry accounted for nine of Atlanta's points.

Tami Mauriello Blasts Belloise In First Round

'Battle of Bronx' Lasts Only Two Minutes, 58 Seconds.

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP)—Tami Mauriello, who was rated the brightest young prospect in the middleweight division until he was beaten by Billy Soose, regained that rating tonight when he knocked out Steve Belloise in 2:58 of the first round of their "Battle of the Bronx" at Madison Square Garden.

Mauriello weighed 161 pounds, Belloise 153. Springing into action at the opening bell, Mauriello floored his Bronx rival three times with right-hand shots to the head before he pounded him through the ropes with a fourth to end the fight.

The crowd of about 14,000 which had come to make noise about the neighborhood brawl, hardly had started yelling when Tami slipped over the first right to the jaw and floored Belloise for a nine count. Steve, a strong favorite, didn't seem badly hurt at that time, but when Mauriello repeated on his next rush across the ring, he tried to hang on.

That didn't work either. Mauriello came tearing across the ring with his right hand cocked, caught Steve in his own corner, and after a brief flurry sent him down for a third count of nine. He was barely able to get up at the count of nine and was standing, almost helpless along the ropes, when Tami rushed at him with his right lifted, slammed it against Steve's jaw and turned away. Belloise slid backwards through the ropes and was unable to pull himself to his feet.

In a preliminary fight, Luther White, 139, of Athens, Ga., outpointed Bernie Miller, 138 1-2, of New York, in six rounds.

Petrels Prep For First Tilt With Florida

Frank Anderson moved his Stormy Petrel through their second week of practice yesterday as the Birds prepped for their opener with the University of Florida that is less than two weeks away.

The grey-haired dean of southern college baseball coaches is molding his 41 nine around a nucleus of but six lettermen and 14 veterans. This is the 25th consecutive season as baseball coach for Anderson.

Leading pitcher of Anderson's five-man staff is Clifford McCann, member of the team of United States amateurs that competed in the world's tournament games held in Havana, Cuba, last summer. Declared ineligible last season, the lanky boy is all set to go this year.

The Petrel schedule is tentative but to date includes Florida, Auburn, Presbyterian, Ft. Benning, Newberry, Georgia and Piedmont College.

Van Mungo

Van Lingle Mungo is off the reservation again and it recalls a lot of things to Earl Mann and Paul Richards.

Van Mungo, who has been sent to Macon to start over again with Montreal, was developed by Richards when the Cracker manager was catching at Hartford in 1931. Mann was president of the Hartford club.

Richards claims no credit for developing Mungo but Earl Mann says he's the one who prepared him for a big league career which Mungo largely has wasted.

(He had sworn off this season and was going to win 25 games for Brooklyn.)

Mungo's start in the big show is interesting.

He pitched on a Sunday for Hartford at Norfolk and won the game. He returned to Hartford and immediately was summoned to pitch for Brooklyn by Uncle Wilbert Robinson.

And on Tuesday Van Mungo opposed the Boston Braves and shut them out. That was in 1931. Richards moved up to Brooklyn the next year and caught him in several games.

Big Mungo, who's from Pageland, S. C., was a cannonball type of pitcher, throwing directly overhand, Richards recalled. He had everything—except the right temperament.

It didn't surprise Richards that Brooklyn has shipped him away to Montreal to start over. He always had plenty of control on the diamond but very little off the field.

"What really surprises me is that he has stuck in the big show as long as he has," Richards declared.

Good Point Richards' point may be well taken. In the last three seasons with Brooklyn, Mungo's record has been as follows: 1937, won 9 and lost 11; 1938, won 4 and lost 11, and 1939, won 4 and lost 5.

Mungo has been staying on a promise. And yet Emil (Dutch) Leonard, now one of the American League's most effective pitchers, was not given much chance at Brooklyn. Leonard, a fellow who never was attracted by the bright lights, was a real pitcher, too.

He proved it when Atlanta gave him a chance to return to the big leagues. He twice was the Southern League's most effective pitcher, and then won 20 games when he returned to the majors with Washington.

Anybody who can win 20 games for Washington is a whiz kid. Richards probably had something to do with developing Leonard.

The fact remains he could handle Van Mungo. The accented right-hander had his best year when Richards caught him at Hartford. He won 15 and lost 5.

Leonard became a standout with Atlanta after wasting the better part of four years with Brooklyn. In Leonard's case it probably was a case of Richards allowing him to pitch his knuckle ball at will. Plus a new confidence the young Cracker pilot gave him.

No Telling The Van Mungo personality must be what has kept him so long with Brooklyn. The Baron Boofs Poffenberger wasn't tolerated.

He wasn't even given another chance after winning 29 games last year for Nashville. Larry Gilbert, who is close to the Brooklyn organization, couldn't persuade them to give the Baron another chance.

So it must be the Van Mungo personality or his table manners. Certainly his pitching record hasn't justified almost 10 years with the Dodgers.

May Change Him Poffenberger was a good boy last season. It has been well established that he didn't stray from the straight and narrow. He was making a desperate bid to return to the majors.

But the chance has been denied and there is no telling what psychological effect it will have on the Baron.

Will he be as enthusiastic as he was last year? Certainly he couldn't do any more than he did. So he must feel a bit down in the mouth. He may feel there's no use.

And the Vols won't have Greek George to catch him. There are a lot of things the defending champions won't have. Bob Boken and Arnold Moser are gone. So is Socko Rocco. And Ace Adams, a fine pitcher.

So the winter book operators may be taking a long chance in figuring the Vols as favorites for the 1941 flag chase in the Southern League.

Chances are the Vols won't have a guy like Rocco hitting four miles over his head for the first 45 days of the season, either.

Lookouts Show Power in Drill; Gehringer Dropped to No. 6

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—The supposedly weak-hitting Chattanooga Lookouts are beginning to show signs of unexpected power as they pound the ball in spring training. Sparky Olson, lead-off man, is banging away with the accuracy that made him a constant threat last season. Ted Mueller, clean-up man, and Hillis Layne, shortstop, are others apparently in mid-season form.

The Lookouts get their first taste of competition tomorrow when they engage Atlanta in an exhibition.

LAKELAND, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—Manager Del Baker furnished a mild surprise for the Detroit Tiger training camp today by deciding to drop Charley Gehringer to No. 6 position in the batting order for tomorrow's exhibition game against Cleveland.

For Charley's old No. 3 place Baker chose the sensational sophomore of 1940, Barney McCoskey. Hank Greenberg, and sure, is ticketed for the cleanup position and his slugging partner, Rudy York, for fifth.

Ned Harris and Murray Franklin, rookies from Beaumont, will play right field and third base, respectively. Al Benton, Dizzy Trout and Johnny Gorsica will share the pitching.

TRAVIS, CASE, ARCHIE HOMER. ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 14.—Cecil Travis, George Case and Archie Homer each hit home runs today for so.

Crackers Play 'Nooga Today; Rookies Start

Tommy O'Brien May Be Shifted to Short for Protection.

By KENNETH ROGERS, Staff Correspondent.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 14.—Manager Paul Richards, pleased with the work of the Cracker Bluebirds against Babe Ruth's All-Stars, will start an all-rookie aggregation against Ki Ki Cuyler's Chattanooga Lookouts tomorrow afternoon in Daytona Beach.

Rookies in which the Cracker skipper has expressed an especial interest include Pete Thomassie, Tommy O'Brien, John Kelly and Pat Petrinio. These boys will play Saturday and Sunday.

However, Richards will start the regulars Sunday, with Thomassie playing center field and rookies, with one exception, on the mound. Here's the lineup in batting order for Saturday:

Thomassie, center; Kelly, second base; Petrinio, first base; O'Brien, third base; Robinson, left field; Pette, shortstop; Flair, right field; Ferrara, catcher; Lawson, Bearson and Bankston, pitchers.

In the second game on Sunday the Crackers will line up as follows: Glock, third base; Mailho, right field; Ryan, second base; Marshall, left field; Burge, first base; Smith, catcher; Thomassie, center; Gerlach, shortstop, and Burgess, Nowak and Chipman, pitching.

O'Brien, former Tennessee football player, may be shifted to shortstop. He is a big strong boy and is equipped with a shotgun arm.

If anything should happen to Johnny Gerlach, such as Uncle Sam calling him into the Army, O'Brien might come in right handy as a shortstop. Another idea behind the shifting of the boy from third base is that he will make a more valuable prospect for major league sale as a shortstop.

There aren't too many great shortstop prospects like O'Brien around.

The Crackers, setting an all-time record for consecutive training, indulged in their 101st straight drill today. This covers three spring camps at Savannah and the present one in the Ancient City.

CHECK LINEUPS—Manager Paul Richards, left, of the Crackers, and Babe Ruth, of the Ruth All-Stars, snapped as they checked each other's lineups before Thursday night's game. The Cracker rookies defeated Ruth's baseball school kids, 11-5, in the first exhibition game of the season.

Bright's Team Loses in Close Pro-Am Battle

Gordon, Goggin Also Bow; Snead, Wehrle Go to Semi-Finals.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—Sluggin' Sammy Snead, of Hot Springs, Va., and Wilford Wehrle, of Chicago, were as hot as the weather was cold today in tomorrow's 36-hole semifinals of the seventh annual national pro-amateur best-ball match play tournament.

Victor Ghezzi, of Deal, N. J., and Arnold Minkley, of Chicago, will meet Snead and Wehrle in tomorrow's 36-hole semifinals. Jimmy Hines, of Great Neck, N. Y., and Mel Demaris, of Brockton, Mass., will meet Jack Grout and Frank Allan, classy Pittston (Pa.) team, in the other semi-final match.

Snead and Wehrle ignored the raw north winds to play superb golf in disposing of Al Brosch, of Beth Page, N. Y., and Harold Butler, of Hempstead, N. Y., 4 and 3, in the morning round, and 3 and 2, in the afternoon. The clubhouse thermometer stood at 47 when they started and was back down to the same figure when they finished.

Grout and Allan defeated Willie Goggin, of San Francisco, and Jennings Gordon, of Rome, Ga., 3 and 2 in the final match of the day. Gordon and Goggin beat Jimmy Thomson, Chicopee, Mass., and Carl Dann, Orlando, 4 and 3 in the morning.

Grout and Allan defeated Lloyd Mangrum, of Oak Park, Ill., and Morton Bright, of Atlanta, one up in 23 holes in the morning.

Riggs Will Meet McNeill in Final

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 14.—(AP)—Defending Champion Bobby Riggs, of Chicago, today defeated Frank Guernsey, Houston, to enter the national indoor tennis finals with Don McNeill. Riggs turned back Guernsey in a four-set thriller, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, 6-1.

McNeill, open champion and home town favorite in whose honor Oklahoma brought the indoor championship tennis for the first time, bested Frank McElwee, Arkansas state champion. The score was 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

Tech's Jacket fencers will attempt to make it two in a row over the draft-ridden Atlanta Fencing Club this afternoon when they meet in the Tech armory for another three-weapon engagement.

Dodgers Are Up To Old Tricks

HAVANA, March 14.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers, who sent half their squad to Miami last night after beating the Cuban All-Stars, 11 to 4, in an exhibition, were ambushed, 4 to 3, today by these same All-Stars.

The Spotlight The Big Quiz Roundup

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 14.—All quiz clubs, interested in baseball, are hereby called to order. We are able to offer them a few interesting and important queries that even more ball players can't answer. They came to us from the active brain of Ford Frick, president of the National League.

1. How long is the playing career of the average big league ball player?

2. What is the average amount of money big league ball players make in their playing time?

3. What is the average length of time it takes to develop a big leaguer, starting from his first day in the minors?

It has remained for Ford Frick, one of the best officials baseball ever knew, to supply the correct answers. It was no easy job since President Frick had to look back through the lifetime careers of a long list to bring the average to the correct mark.

I happened to be with Bill Dickey, Joe Gordon and Red Rolfe when Ford put on his quiz —and none of us came within brassie distance of hitting the target.

Average Playing Lifetime "There have been leaguers who knew only one year of service," Frick said. "There have been others, such as Ty Cobb, Pop

Alton and Jack Quinn, who hung on for nearly 25 years. But in adding up all the figures I discovered the average big league player's career is just eight and a half years.

"Those who passed the 20-year mark include Cobb, Alton, Wagner, Ruth, Lajoie, Quinn, Speaker, Cy Young, and a few more. There were not so many. A great many have lasted from 12 to 15 years. But the average span is eight and a half seasons."

This was a trifle astonishing to Messrs. Dickey, Gordon and Rolfe, who had guessed from four to six years.

Ball Players' Pay Checks Question number two is— "How much do ball players get in their playing careers?"

Mr. Frick had the answer to this. "The amount," he said, "is $120,000. This would mean roughly $14,000 a year. Salaries have ranged from $3,000 to Babe Ruth's $80,000—and it was Babe Ruth who lifted the average far above old levels."

"This mark is well above what it was 10 years ago. It is far above what it was 20 years ago. I recall over 30 years ago when Larry Lajoie and Ed Delahanty, two of the greatest of all time, were offered contracts for $2,500 and held out for $3,000, and they were both around the .400 class."

The largest salary Christy Mathewson ever drew was $12,000, when he was winning from 33 to 35 games a year.

The highest paid men today include Hank Greenberg, Bob Feller, Buck Newsom and Joe DiMaggio. Their average is above $30,000.

Until Ford Frick dug up the general average, I doubt that anyone ever guessed that an eight and one-half-year ball player would collect $120,000 for his work.

The highest pay rolls today belong to the Yankees, Tigers and Red Sox. All three have such headliners as Greenberg, DiMaggio, Newsom, Dickey, Gehring, Foxx, Grove, Williams, Ruffing and Gordon, who are all in the higher brackets—and are still around.

"One queer feature," Frick said, "is that most of the higher salaries come in a ball player's tenth or eleventh season, when he has become a star."

There is a report out that the only ball player who was ever sent a blank contract and told to write in his own figures was Bob Grove, of the Red Sox. Whereupon Grove sent the unsigned contract back to Tom Yawkey with the request that Yawkey do

235 Couples Seek Prizes In Big Event

Men and Women From Every League in City To Compete.

The ninth annual Atlanta Constitution "St. Patrick's Day" doubles bowling tournament is scheduled to get under way at three local bowling centers at 11 o'clock this morning with a grand field of 236 couples of men and women slated to roll their five games in the competition (for a new entry list world's record mark) before the meet draws to a close this evening.

Other groups will bowl their games at 1:30 or 5 o'clock in the afternoon or at 7:30 p. m. in the evening. Sites of the tournament are at the downtown Bick's Bowling Center, uptown Lucky Strike and the Palace at Highland and Ponce de Leon avenue.

Surpassing last year's record entry list of 202 couples by 33 couples, this event has reached a new peak in popularity with local pin splitters this year.

GOLD MEDALS. Both men and women from every league in the city will be bowling for the gold medals that are to be presented the champions. The winner will be, in every sense, a champion—two champions, in fact—for the representative of the Atlanta bowlers and the use of the handicaps will make for close and exciting competition throughout the match.

The special individual high game awards, in the separate men's and women's divisions, of a bag and three bowling balls, donated by the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company, will be given to the bowlers seeking "powerhouse" games as they convert breaks into spares in the heaviest scoring single day tournament of the year.

Due to the bowling in blocks and the fact that many of the participants will be non-league bowlers, who have never participated in tournament play, the foul line judge will not be on duty. Bowlers are cautioned, however, to observe the rule of play.

LIST STILL OPEN. The entry list will remain open right up to game time this evening, and you are cordially invited to register by calling Walnut 5622 your convenience.

New entries filed Thursday and Friday include Joe Herzog-Al Wagon; Nolan-Richard O'Callahan; Bales-Reese; Gayle-Jones; Brandon-Shepherd; Cash-Chewning; Estes-Mason; Mitchell-Hall; Cannon-Hill; Hite-Dugan; Miss Pope-Miss Gilmore; Vining-Hirleman; Parker-Appleby; Wilson-Reynolds; J. C. Porter and partner; Miss Hattaway-Mrs. L. J. James; Jack Eismann - Jimmy Reeves; John Ray-Herbert Foule; J. Nations-Robuck; E. Vaughn and partner; A. L. Prickett and partner; I. Potts-H. Lang; G. Kiser-L. Wynne; W. H. McAdams-Carlson Noland, and others.

The big Gulf League has promised from four to ten teams and will roll their games at 1:30 at the downtown alleys.

Late entries include Randy Gann-John McGuire; J. D. Wiley-Buddy Hall; W. H. Thompson and partner; Billy Reel and partner; Ed Hogstad and partner; Franklin-Bravett; A. Renfro and partner; Carson-Clyde; Doc Simmons and partner; Jones-Ahern; Murrey-Adams; Bob Jakes-Frank Eaton; Roy Pendleton and partner; Andy McElroy and partner; Niggard-A. G. Finkle, and others.

Harmon To Make Film for $15,000 NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP)—Tom Harmon, All-America half-back from the University of Michigan, signed a $15,000 contract tonight to star in a single picture for Columbia Pictures—"Harmon of Michigan."

Jack Cohn, Columbia vice president, said the picture featuring football would be built around the general activities of the star himself.

Mack, Son Unhurt In Auto Accident ANAHEIM, Cal., March 14.—(UP)—Connie Mack, manager-president of the Philadelphia Athletics, escaped serious injury today when lightning struck a car from the car in which he and his son were riding.

The lightning split a telephone pole, hurling one piece to the ground in front of Mack's car.

Kirby and Hicks Play for Title

Dorothy Beats Mrs. Gallatin At Belleair, 4-3

Elizabeth Turns Back Jean Bauer in Semi-Finals, 3-2.

By DOROTHY KIRBY.
BELLEAIR, Fla., March 14.—The field is down to only two players and I am glad to say that I am one of the finalists along with Elizabeth Hicks. It was a hard battle today, a fight with both the wind and the opposition. A mild gale blew all the way and it was doubly difficult to hit the ball.

I certainly had my troubles, too. However, Mrs. Gallatin was having a hard time of it also. So we both struggled. I am going to blame a lot of the bad play on the wind. It is a good excuse anyway.

Mrs. Gallatin was still tickled over eliminating Mrs. Vane yesterday. We had a time of it this morning with stymies. She gave me four and each time I had the putt for a win and naturally missed the putt. If it hadn't been for this little item of stymies, things might have been different. The final score was 4 and 3.

CLOSE MATCH.
The match was closer than it appears, for I only had her one up at the end of nine holes. I won the eleventh, twelfth and fifteenth to end it.

The other match between Bauer and Hicks ended with Elizabeth Hicks winning by 3 and 2. This was a good match. Elizabeth hit her shots better than Jean. She had par in for a 79, while Jean was several strokes higher.

Elizabeth practiced all yesterday afternoon, even taking a lesson. When she finally gave up and quit practicing she ran into Lawson Little, who made the suggestion that there would be a full moon last night so that she might go out after dinner and continue hitting shots. If the saying, "Practice makes perfect," holds true, little Hicks is well on her way to perfection.

SECOND MEETING.
When Elizabeth and I met to-morrow morning it will be the second time. Last year I lost to her on the eighteenth hole at Punta Gorda. I would certainly like to even up the score this year. However, she is playing pretty golf, so it will take around even par to do anything against Elizabeth. I hope I have it tomorrow.

Oldest Horse, 38, Dies in Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 14.—Merrick, at 38 the oldest thoroughbred horse, died yesterday of old age.

The noted racer, foaled in 1903 at the late James B. Haggin's farm near Sacramento, Cal., was buried today in a horse cemetery on the farm of Owner J. Cal Milam.

Merrick still holds the record for seven furlongs at Latonia, Ky. The mark of 1:25 2-5 was made October 15, 1909.

The Duke of Windsor will be referee of the 18-hole matches today and tomorrow.

Sport of Kings All But Extinct In England; Horses Rationed

By EDDY GILMORE.
NEWMARKET, England, March 14.—(AP)—This ancient racing town, once so horse-conscious that its faces with saddle soap, is sadly watching Britain's sport of kings become a barely tolerated pastime. The number of blooded horses has dwindled from 6,000 to 2,300, and annual export receipts have dropped from $3,500,000 to practically nothing.

Race horses, like nearly every living thing in Britain, are rationed. In peacetime some got as much as 20 pounds of oats daily, but now get 15 pounds.

And that ration is begrudged by one segment of the public, which would like to destroy the horses so hens may have more to eat and lay more eggs for egg-short Britons.

Newmarket has been hardest hit of all British racing towns. Where racing began on beautiful heaths in the reign of King Charles II, as many as 1,500 horses once trained for big British and American races. Now only 200 train in this center of breeding and training.

SHIPPED TO U. S.
Many horses were destroyed and others shipped to the United States.

Half a dozen once-busy saddleshops and color makers known all over the racing world have closed. The town's population of free-roaming little jockeys has gone off to war.

For the first time in British racing history girls and old men—some in the 60's—have been drafted as riders and groomers. Captain Cecil Boyd-Rochford, noted trainer of American-owned horses whose purses from 1926 to the start of the war totaled $2,442,410, is one of the few still remaining. "Racing's fate is very much in

Hank Is Signed By Tigers for $50,000 Salary

Greenberg May Be Put in Class I-B on Account of Flat Feet.

DETROIT, March 14.—(AP)—The flat feet that have carried big Hank Greenberg to great baseball honors and to a 1941 playing contract reported to call for $50,000 produced a difficult question to-night for his draft board here. The Detroit Tiger outfielder and home run hitter now is training with the ball club at Lakeland, Fla., where he was examined recently by a physician at the behest of the draft board.

Board officials here said today they had not received the medical report, and Dr. Grover C. Freeman, of Lakeland, said the report was confidential until released by the board, but—

Two Detroit newspapers reported the physician had recommended that Greenberg be given a Class B-1 rating, making him available only for limited Army service, because of the flat feet.

Greenberg, at Lakeland, said if that is so "it is a great surprise to me," and added that he was "ready to go into service at any time I am called."

Selective service officials said no men with B-1 ratings had been drafted in this area.

60-Year-Old Man Gets Fifth Dodo

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 15.—(AP)—Many a fine professional golfer will go without a hole-in-one throughout his career, but to Dr. J. H. Phillips, 60-year-old amateur, dodo shots are getting to be old stuff.

He pumped his fifth into the 150-yard 18th at the Richland course here today, using a No. 5 iron. All his aces have been on the same course but on different holes.

Evening College Wins Final, 47-42

Five foot-four-inch Paul Hickman gave a typical McDermott exhibition Thursday night as the Georgia Evening College "Owls" closed their season with an impressive 47 to 42 victory over the Capitol View Presbyterian church. Shooting from all angles the diminutive, former Boys' High star ripped the cords for a total of 27 points.

Kelley Mote and Frank Gabriel led the losers' offensive with 12 and 10 points, respectively. Upchurch and Dodd were best defensively.

AMERICAN-OWNED.

Two years ago Boyd-Rochford was training 65 horses. He now has 25, including four owned by Marshall Field, three by William Woodward and one by John Hay Whitney, all American stables. He is pointing the filly Suncastle for the historic derby.

Also training here are eight horses belonging to King George VI, and 12 owned by Lord Derby, but everything is on a reduced scale.

Adding to Newmarket's woes, a Nazi plane recently dropped out of the skies to machinegun and then drop bombs on High street, which apparently has nothing more closely resembling a riding pants being made for a retired colonel at the store of Jimmy Cheuter, famous britches maker.

A sign hung near the Congregational church seems to express the town's sentiment. It reads "Heaven is often nearer when we stoop than when we soar." Perhaps significantly, it says nothing about heaven for those who ride.

Parade Precedes Opening Day Baseball Game Here April 10

Mayor LeCraw To Take Part in Festivities; City Employees Likely To Be Permitted To Attend.

By JACK TROY.
"Mister mayor," said Fain Peek, member of the Jaycee opening day committee, "I want to invite you to ride in the parade—that is, if you'll give us a permit to have a parade."

That's a lot like saying we'd have some ham and eggs, if we had any ham, isn't it?" responded the mayor.

The junior chamber committee working on the program for the Cracker's opening day, Thursday, April 10, visited Mayor LeCraw and Carlton Mobley, Governor Talmadge's executive secretary.

Neither LeCraw nor Mobley seemed to view the visitors as Greeks bearing gifts and said that city and state would co-operate to the fullest extent.

Opening day committee members, who included Cracker President Earl Mann and Secretary Jasper Donaldson in their number, are Fain Peek, Bill Grizzard, James Moore and Elmore Thrash.

They were busy yesterday and accomplished a few things for the opening-day program. The mayor will ride in the parade and also appear at the game. The city probably won't declare a half-holiday, but those employees wishing to support the Cracker's likely will be given permission to attend the game.

Governor Talmadge was out of town yesterday, but Secretary Mobley said he'd talk with him Monday about riding in the parade and also attending the opener with those Knoxville Smokies.

Mobley also thought state employees would be given permission to attend the opener if they wished.

It is less than a month before the first game of the Southern League season, and President Mann, who returned yesterday from St. Augustine, said box-seat reservations are heavy.

Mann was questioned on all sides as to Cracker prospects as he walked around town, and he pulled no punches.

"I think we've got the best balanced club we've ever had," he answered, flashing the famous Mann smile.

Chatham Reports To Smoke Club

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—Three more players reported to the Knoxville Smokies training camp here today and the Southern Association club began to take on the appearance of a baseball team.

Newcomers were Buster Chatham, shortstop; Eddie Lukon, outfielder, and Vernon Shetter, possible utility infielder-outfielder for the Smokies.

Shetter was the only one of the three to practice today and when he had done his bit Manager Freddie Lindstrom was all smiles.

"He's a natural," said the skipper, after the 200-pound ex-Bristol, Va., player had rapped out some long ones from the plate.

Billion-Dollar Financing Set For Next Week

Treasury Action Will Boost Debt to High of $47,000,000,000.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP) Secretary Morgenthau today announced plans for $1,000,000,000 of treasury financing next week which will boost the federal debt to a new record high of $47,000,000,000.

He said it was planned to borrow $500,000,000 of "new money" through the sale of securities, and to issue additional securities to refund $504,000,000 of 1 3-8 per cent treasury notes coming due for payment June 15.

Baby bond sales and borrowing of $100,000,000 on short-term treasury bills, officials said, probably would put the debt past $47,000,000,000 next Friday or Saturday.

The treasury currently is spending more than $500,000,000 a month for the Army and Navy. C. dinarily it would borrow no money in March because income tax collections are expected to be about $1,000,000,000 this month.

Details of the new securities were withheld.

Glasgow Keeps Building Ships Despite Bombs

Damage 'Not Excessive,' Officials Claim, as City Digs Out.

GLASGOW, March 14.—(UP) The clang of riveters' hammers sounded as usual in the great shipyards along the River Clyde today as officials announced that damage and casualties in the first major German raid on the "City of Scotland" were "not excessive."

Workers dug in the wreckage of houses and tenements, and it was feared that the list of victims might increase. Hundreds of homeless found food and shelter in neighbors' homes, or in theaters and cinemas. Business was conducted in a normal manner.

The mass raid last night and early today was the first great attack on any British shipbuilding center and was taken by some observers to indicate a possible change in German bombing plans. They believed that Hitler previously had refrained from assaulting the shipyards because he hoped to use them himself if the Nazis invaded the British Isles.

Explosives and fire bombs were dropped by the hundreds as the raiders droned high overhead in bright moonlight. Many buildings were hit and many fires were started, but all were quickly controlled.

One German raider cracked up on a hillside in central Scotland, and its crew of four men were captured by fishermen and home guards.

Naval Academy Course Shortened to 3 Years

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP) The Navy has shortened the Naval Academy course from four to three years to speed up the supply of junior officers for the expanding fleet.

Rear Admiral C. W. Nimitz, chief of the Bureau of Navigation, told the Senate Appropriations Committee that the class of 1943 would be graduated in June, 1942, a year ahead of normal schedule, although based on models originated by Germany and Italy.

It was said reliably that a single political party was likely, stemming from the Imperial Reserve Assistance Association, which Konoye heads and which is currently undergoing a drastic reorganization.

It was considered probable that all basic industries would be placed solely under the control of the throne.

For Greene Hospital

GREENSBORO, Ga., March 14.—The Mary Leila Cotton Mills have offered a $1,000 donation for a Greene county hospital without reservation, through the Greensboro Lions Club.

This makes a total of $2,000 donated toward a county hospital. A former Greene countian, whose name has not been disclosed, offered $1,000 to be used in the erection of a hospital.

Woman Candidate Wins Clarke Ordinary's Post

ATHENS, Ga., March 14.—(AP) Mrs. Ruby Hartman today became the only woman to hold elective office in Clarke county. She was named ordinary to fill the unexpired term of R. C. Orr.

Mrs. Hartman was elected by a margin of nine votes over L. Dennis Penny, former purchasing agent for the University of Georgia. She polled 674 votes to 665 for Penny. There were four others in the race, Robert Hamilton, who polled 443; Jim Hartford, 425; J. P. Nunnally, 100, and W. T. Ray, 203.

Mrs. Hartman was assistant to Judge Orr for 12 years. The unexpired term runs through 1944.

Japanese Governmental Changes Expected Soon

TOKYO, March 15.—(Saturday)—(AP)—Momentous political and governmental changes for Japan are expected April 3, the newspaper Asahi reported today, with Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye heading a "Greater East Asia League" in a program described as distinctively Japanese although based on models originated by Germany and Italy.

It was said reliably that a single political party was likely, stemming from the Imperial Reserve Assistance Association, which Konoye heads and which is currently undergoing a drastic reorganization.

It was considered probable that all basic industries would be placed solely under the control of the throne.

1,000 More Donated For Greene Hospital

GREENSBORO, Ga., March 14.—The Mary Leila Cotton Mills have offered a $1,000 donation for a Greene county hospital without reservation, through the Greensboro Lions Club.

This makes a total of $2,000 donated toward a county hospital. A former Greene countian, whose name has not been disclosed, offered $1,000 to be used in the erection of a hospital.

The Greene county board of commissioners has been requested to use $15,000 in state highway certificates to assist in erecting the hospital under a WPA project.

British Appoint New 'Western' Commander

LONDON, March 15.—(Saturday)—(UP)—Appointment of Admiral Sir Percy L. H. Noble as commander-in-chief of Britain's western approaches was announced today by the admiralty.

The appointment was regarded as a move to strengthen the navy against the German submarine menace, and informants said Sir Percy henceforth could be considered as the commander of the "battle of the Atlantic."

Nazis Threaten More Raids on Glasgow Port

Devastating Bomb Attack Rocks 'Scottish Chicago.'

BERLIN, March 14.—(UP)—Germany threatened today that "not one stone will remain upon another" at the important Atlantic port of Glasgow, "Scottish Chicago," subjected to devastating attack during the night by hundreds of German bombers.

(An Associated Press dispatch from Berlin stated that Germany acknowledged 76 deaths since Wednesday from British counterblows at Hamburg and Berlin.)

"The destruction of important targets of this excellent Atlantic harbor is only the beginning," the official DNB news agency promised.

While Glasgow was receiving its first major night raid other Nazi planes blasted the Liverpool region for the second time in 24 hours and spread out to include Hull and Birkenhead.

DNB revealed that among "startling" new British defenses were night fighters equipped with individual searchlights. A terrific groundswell of searchlights and the German agency said that "everywhere under the clear and star-spangled sky death lurked."

Nazi quarters said the raids on Glasgow and Liverpool had put last November's devastating attack on Coventry "in the shade." Other "very strong" formations were said to have raided harbor towns on the east and west coasts and interior industrial cities.

Congressmen Visit Benning On Dixie Tour

Making Study of Southern Needs as Result of Defense Program.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 14.—(AP)—Nine congressmen, members of the House Public Buildings and Grounds Committee, making a study in southeastern states of community needs as the result of expanding Army posts, arrived here tonight.

Representative Frank Boykin, Democrat, Alabama, acting chairman of the group, said the tour was preliminary to final consideration Tuesday of the Lanham bill to appropriate $150,000,000 for hospitals, schools and other facilities in the south, made necessary by the heavy influx of soldiers and defense workers.

Leaving Washington today, the congressmen stopped at Charleston and Port Benjamin.

In addition to Boykin, members of the party were Representatives J. Mendel Rivers, South Carolina; Earl Wilson, Indiana; James A. Wright, Pennsylvania; Robert F. Sikes, Florida; C. W. Bishop, Illinois; J. H. McGrath, Ohio; J. S. Gibson, Georgia, and C. E. Kilburn, New York.

South Georgians Confer on Plans for Army Work in State.

TIFTON, Ga., March 14.—(AP)—South Georgia Methodist ministers here today discussed a plan designed to strengthen churches in the vicinity of military camps and establishments.

Bishop Arthur Moore, meeting with his cabinet of district superintendents for this section, announced that a portion of a special offering taken recently would be used for the work.

The bishop also said that the south Georgia Methodist conference will meet in Valdosta beginning November 5.

Along with discussion of the coming conference and the movement to strengthen churches, the ministers talked over plans for a special evangelistic campaign during the pre-Easter season.

The cabinet meeting was held at Abraham Baldwin College here because of the rural life character of this week which was attended by 46 pastors of rural Georgia. Those attending the rural conference represented four different denominations, however.

Each morning representatives of various agricultural, educational and social agencies working in rural Georgia appeared before the ministers to explain their objectives.

The afternoon sessions were devoted to discussion of ways and means by which rural ministers could co-operate with various agencies for the betterment of rural conditions.

Seven Billion May Be Spent In 16 Months

be asked if the war lasts long enough.

However, the 16-month goal indicated that the British Empire, Greece, China and possibly other countries may get $2,054,000,000 worth of airplanes, $1,343,000,000 of guns and other ordnance, $362,000,000 of tanks and other vehicles, $629,000,000 of ships, $1,350,000,000 of food and other supplies, and $260,000,000 of miscellaneous help by June 30, 1942.

What the aid program meant in money, officials added, could be explained by the fact that the appropriation was equal to about 82 percent of all the coin and currency in circulation in the United States.

Business Uses Checks.

But, most business is done by checks, and check transactions, experts said, probably would increase more than cash turnover. However, the appropriation is less than the average amount of checks cashed each week in about 250 of the leading cities of the country.

But officials said it meant a tremendous job for the Treasury to raise the money. Under present plans, most of it will be borrowed by the treasury in America for the next fiscal year was $9,200,000,000 before the aid program was devised. Now, an even larger amount may have to be borrowed.

Because of this, on May 1 the Treasury will begin soliciting nearly everyone in America to invest his savings in government securities. Those who haven't the cash to buy $1,000 bonds will be offered smaller securities, as low as 10 cents.

The amount of borrowing will depend automatically on tax receipts, and the amount estimated for the next fiscal year at $8,300,000,000, but President Roosevelt has urged even more taxes.

Thus, more than one dollar out of every ten in the nation's income will have to be paid to the government. On the other hand, more and more of the population will be working directly or indirectly for the government and getting its living from it—in government offices, in training camps or munitions factories.

Clues to the spending possibilities of the $7,000,000,000 lease-lend appropriation were seen by officials in the memorandum submitted to President Roosevelt by his budget director, Harold D. Smith.

The memorandum indicated that $5,621,000,000 of the total was at least potentially in the quick-spending class. Only items in the slower-spending class, these persons said, were $752,000,000 for building factories and $629,000,000 for ships.

Presumably, they explained, the airplanes and other weapons in the program would come off the production lines of factories which are already in operation or nearing completion. Thus these goods should be available for purchase pretty fast.

Financial experts said it was impossible to say at this time to what the $1,000,000,000 program would enlarge the $17,500,000,000 budget for American needs alone, which President Roosevelt sent to congress in January. They said they thought the new total would be over $20,000,000,000, but not all the costs of the new program could be added to the January figure because of possible transfers of some costs from the Army-Navy program to the lease-lend program, and because of the limits of factory capacity devoted to filling orders for both programs.

PIERSON TO SAIL

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP)—Warren Lee Pierson, president of the Export-Import Bank, will sail from New York at midnight tonight for Brazil on an undisclosed mission, it was learned today.

SUSPECT—Roy E. Johnson, Fort Jackson soldier, arrested yesterday by FBI agents in an investigation of an alleged attempt to extort $5,000 from William Schley Howard.

lanta federal penitentiary for writing extortion letters to the Rev. Felton Williams, head of the Atlanta Mission.

Johnson was in the uniform of the medical detachment when arrested. Danner quoted him as saying: "I was on a drunk and went broke and thought this would be a good way to get some money."

According to Danner, Howard received a crudely-written letter in pencil, March 1, signed with the initials "C. E. B." and demanding $500. March 4, a similar letter with the same demand arrived at Howard's home in Decatur.

Both these letters were turned over to the FBI by Pierre Howard.

In this connection, Danner disclosed that Howard was ill at home and his son handled the letters for him.

Signed Own Name.

The third letter, in an envelope bearing the name of a small hotel on Luckie street, arrived at Howard's home yesterday. It was more legibly written than the others, Danner said, and bore the signature "Roy E. Johnson."

"This third letter demanded $5,000 and threatened to destroy Howard's home," said Danner. "It also instructed Howard to put the money in a box, bring it to Capitol avenue and Fair street—apparently Johnson didn't know Fair street is now Memorial drive."

"The letter went on to tell Howard that a 1939 Ford sedan would drive by and a red handkerchief would be tossed out, as a sign for the money to be paid over. The time of the rendezvous was 7:30 p. m."

Agents came into the hotel where Johnson was arrested, and Johnson came into the lobby. He was arrested and taken to the FBI offices in the Healey building.

He admitted writing the letters, after a few days of questioning, "While we were talking to him we received word from the FBI laboratory in Washington that the two previous letters checked with those written years ago to the Rev. Williams, which had been filed in Washington."

To Be Arraigned.

Johnson will be arraigned this morning before United States Commissioner David E. Meyerhardt. He was lodged in Fulton tonight.

According to Danner, Johnson entered the service five months ago and was released March 1 from the city stockade, where he served 30 days for drunkenness.

Danner said Johnson's record includes the following: Sentenced in 1935 in Fulton county to six months for forging a government check; sentenced to six months for burglary in Atlanta in 1936; given 12 months' probation in March 1937, for being drunk and disorderly in a public place; sentenced in July 1937, to three years in the federal penitentiary for writing extortion letters to the Rev. M. Williams.

awakened and I called him. He did not wake up immediately, but after I called several more times I saw him get out of bed. The last I saw of him was standing between the twin beds."

Both officers were assigned to the 105th Observation squadron, ordered into federal service last September at Fort Jackson.

Sneed, 39-year-old son of a prominent Nashville business man, was graduated from the University of Tennessee School of Engineering in 1924. He enlisted in the 105th in 1929, was made a second lieutenant in July, 1931, and a first lieutenant in February, 1935. He was married, the father of one child.

Both Chief E. F. Lester said he understood an Army airplane would fly the officer's body to Nashville.

TWO TO SPEAK

DALTON, Ga., March 14.—(AP)—Past and George A. Geise, of Chattanooga and Atlanta, respectively, will address the Dalton Lions Club Tuesday night.

Would Provide Employment for C.P.A.'s by Counties; Austin Sings

The house yesterday afternoon passed a bill authorizing grand juries in counties of less than 75,000 population to employ certified public accountants to audit the county books. Several local bills also were passed.

The members also listened to George Austin croon, and then adjourned for lack of a quorum.

Under the audit bill only those counties which do not have an annual audit would be affected. The vote on the measure was 12 to 3.

Singer Austin and his party were ushered into the hall shortly before adjournment and without the aid of a piano or other musical instruments, he warbled "Look Down That Lonesome River" and "My Blue Heaven." Speaker and Rep. Evans Jr. invited Austin as his favorite singer.

The house passed two bills affecting Fulton county—one to alter the Fulton pension law whereby no employee would have to pay into the pension fund more than $5 per month, and another exempting operators of fire apparatus from tort liability for personal or property damages in case of an accident while proceeding to a fire or returning from one under emergency orders.

Church Session Will Begin Today

Approximately 200 Presbyterian students from ten Georgia colleges will meet on the Agnes Scott campus today for the first of two-day sessions of the annual convention of the Presbyterian Students' Association.

The program will begin at 2 o'clock with talks by Dr. R. W. Oakey, of Milledgeville; Dr. John Melton, of Rome, and Charles Commander, Y. M. C. A. director at Georgia Tech.

Dr. William M. Elliott Jr., pastor of the Druid Hills Presbyterian church, will speak at a banquet at 6:30 o'clock tonight in the Agnes Scott dining hall.

Dr. Calvin Rice, of Columbus, will be the featured speaker tomorrow morning in the college chapel. Among those on the closing program Sunday afternoon are Dr. Dwight Wynn, missionary to Korea; the Rev. C. Wood, of the University of Georgia; W. B. Stubbs, of Emory, and Dr. Vernon S. Broyles Jr., of Atlanta.

Pension Is Sought For 'Dirt Farmers'

Georgia's house of representatives desires to help the "real dirt farmers" of Chattooga, and the legislative body adopted a resolution calling on congress to work toward a pension plan for farmers over 60 years of age "who have been real dirt farmers for a period of at least 30 years."

The resolution pointed out that dirt farmers are the most talked-of group in politics, but that rarely has anything been done for them.

Placing their names on the resolution were Representatives George Sabados, of Dougherty; Moose Brinson, of Chattooga; and Marvin Moore, of Hancock.

Mrs. Helen Douglas Mankin, of Fulton, called out that she would like to have her name on the resolution, but some one in the rear of the hall roared back, "city slicker."

AUGUSTAN HAS WRITTEN MANY MAGAZINE SERIALS, ADVENTURE ARTICLES.

Edison Marshall, Georgian-by-adoption, who has been writing magazine serials and adventure articles for 25 years, has just finished his first novel, and was in Atlanta yesterday autographing copies of his "Benjamin Blake," in advance of its publication Monday.

Gray-haired, 46-year-old Marshall, who lives at Augusta, spent two years planning as a typewriter to get Blake, a robust Englishman of the early eighteenth century, into book form. The character had been haunting his dreams for years.

The Literary Guild has selected the book for its March book club. 75,000 copies printed for initial distribution, and the movie rights already have been purchased by Twentieth Century-Fox, who have temporarily tagged Tyrone Power as hero, Marshall announced.

Marshall, a native of Andover during the World War joined the Army in Oregon, was sent to Camp Hancock at Augusta. There romance flowered and Marshall married Belle Agney Flythe in 1920. After a few years in the west they established themselves in Augusta.

Roscoe Turner, Al Jolson Stop At Field Here

Aviator Flays Defense Strikes as Unfair to Soldiers.

By LEE ROGERS.

Colonel Roscoe Turner, speed king and one of the nation's best-known aviators, on a visit here yesterday said strikes must be controlled or the entire national defense program may bog down. "The effect of strikes is being felt today in aviation plants vital to the national defense," the veteran flyer said.

"The soldiers have no right to strike, and labor should have no more rights than the fighting men do," Turner said heatedly.

Turner, a veteran flyer from the first World War, was en route from Miami to Washington and Indianapolis as a commercial passenger. He stopped briefly at the Municipal airport, disclosing he was headed for Washington to talk with government officials and from there to Indianapolis on private business. He owns the airport in the Indiana City.

Aviation and Defense. "There will be no trouble in aviation's end of National defense if they let the people who know aviation run the aviation end of it," Turner predicted. "Aviation is a highly specialized business and only those who can appreciate and understand its intricate workings can hope to get the maximum results."

Plane plants in the United States can turn out more fighting ships for England and this country than Germany can hope to produce, Turner said, adding this will be true only if strikes are controlled.

"Suppose you had a brother in the army," he asked, "do you think it would be fair for you, a worker in an industry vital for supplies he needs at the front, to go on strike and leave him helpless without materials to continue his fight?"

Must Work Together. "Everyone must work together in time of emergency. Strikes are all right in peace times, but when the country's future is at stake, they are cumbersome and dangerous, taking unfair advantage of the soldiers."

Though Colonel Turner helped install the Atlanta airport in 1926, he refused to comment on the condition of the field today. On the same plane with Turner was Al Jolson, stage and screen blackface star, whose trade mark has become the song "Mammy." Turner some years ago took Jolson on his first flight.

Surprise Meeting. Neither knew the other was on the plane until they were asked to pose together for pictures. Turner got on in Miami and Jolson came from Palm Beach.

Jolson has been doing a little vacationing in the Florida resort since his play, "Hold On to Your Hats," closed. He was traveling alone and was en route to Hollywood for the birthday of his six-year-old son, who is with his ex-wife, Ruby Keeler.

He doctored questions about romance and about gambling on horse races. But as soon as the photographers showed up, out came a deck of cards from an inside pocket.

"HAVEN'T SEEN YOU IN A COON'S AGE"—Al Jolson (right) greeted Colonel Roscoe Turner at the municipal airport yesterday. "Let's have a little game of cards." Both were travelling on the same plane but didn't know it until asked to pose for pictures together. Turner took Jolson on his first plane ride.

S. V. D. Fraternity To Hold Reunion

Approximately 40 members of the S. V. D. fraternity, composed of men who belonged to the old Atlanta Boys' Club, will hold a reunion at 6 o'clock tonight in the Georgian Terrace hotel.

The group, which has not met since 1925, was formed after the Atlanta Boys' Club, in 1922, became part of the Atlanta Y. M. C. A.

Although nearly half of the members are now in other cities, they still keep in contact with each other by meeting every few years. Pusiness of the meeting tonight will include organization of a new fraternity for alumni of the present Boys' Club in Atlanta.

Approval Sought for Sale of Water to East Point

City council Monday will be asked to approve a contract for selling the city of East Point from 1,000,000 to 5,000,000 gallons of water monthly until the East Point system, now under construction, is completed.

Under an agreement made in conferences between Atlanta and East Point officials, a contract for the sale will be submitted to council for approval. The East Point council will ratify it at a Monday night meeting.

East Point will pay 12 cents per hundred cubic feet, the same price now being paid by the city of Hapeville.

Mrs. J.M. Cutler Succumbs Here At Age of 72

Macon Resident Was Member of Well-Known Atlanta Family.

Mrs. John M. Cutler, of Macon, daughter of the late Mrs. Emma Edwards Bell, who founded Atlanta's famous Bell House, died Thursday night at a private hospital here after a short illness. She was 72 years old.

Member of a family that was prominently associated with the cultural and industrial growth of Atlanta, Mrs. Cutler moved to Atlanta as a young girl. Her mother's home was the residence of scores of social and civic leaders of Atlanta from the early 1880's until her death in 1914.

Mississippi Native. Mrs. Bell began the Bell House, on Pryor street, with membership for residence limited to 20 or 30 young men, and after moving to the ante-bellum Leydon home, she established her home in the Benjamin Harvey Hill residence just north of the Capital City Club, where she lived until her death. Among the Atlantans who were members are the late Tom Paine, Dr. W. S. Elkin, John Brice, Reuben Arnold and Henry Kennedy. Following Mrs. Bell's death members have continued the association which has played an influential role in Atlanta's history.

Mrs. Cutler, the former Willie Bell, was born in Edwards, Miss., which was named for her mother's family. Her father was the late Richard Bell. She attended school at Lucy Cobb Institute, in Athens, lived in Macon.

Her husband was connected with the Southern railroad, and for many years Mrs. Cutler made her home in Macon. At the time of her death she resided with Mrs. Jack Cutler, of Macon, wife of her only son who died last month. He was the executive director of the Macon Housing Authority. Always active in social and religious circles, Mrs. Cutler was widely known and beloved in both Atlanta and Macon. She was a member of the Christ Episcopal church, of Macon.

Survivors are a brother, Richard E. Bell, of New York City; and three sons, Cadet J. M. Cutler Jr., of the United States Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., and Duncan and William Cutler, of Macon.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11:30 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill by the Rev.

Walter Clem, of the St. Paul's Episcopal church, of Macon. Burial will be in West View cemetery, under direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

Minnie Hite Moody Inspires Additional Social Affairs

Numerous interesting social affairs continue to be given in compliment to Minnie Hite Moody, whose latest novel, "Long Meadows," has just been released.

Sunday morning the popular author will be complimented at the small, informal breakfast to be given by Miss Emily Woodward, of Vienna, at the Piedmont hotel, the guests to include a group of intimate friends.

Miss Helen Parker entertains at a luncheon today at Rich's tearoom for Mrs. Moody and Harold Latham, of New York, vice president of The Macmillan Company, publishers of the novel.

The guests will include W. O. Moody, the author's husband; Miss Elizabeth Moody, their daughter; Mr. and Mrs. John Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Berg, Mr. and Mrs. Bob England, Miss Marcia Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Angus Perkerson, Sam Tupper, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McGill, John Paschal, Tom Ripley, John Donald Wade, of Marshallville, Ga.; Frank Daniel, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Rich, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Neely, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Keeler, William Cole Jones, Wright Bryan, Mrs. Rix Stafford, Tom Ham, Dr. Willis Sutton, Mrs. Murdoch Egan, Mrs. Albert Thornton, Mrs. Dan MacDougall, Roby Robinson, Bill Howland, Clark Howell. Miss Parker will also be hostess at a luncheon on Thursday, March 20, for Mrs. Moody and the members of the Junior League Scribblers' Club, which the latter has taught for several years. This affair will be held at 12:30 o'clock in Rich's tearoom and will follow the regular meeting of the club.

Covers will be laid for Mesdames Reginald Fleet, Joseph Brennan, James Wilcox, Martha Worth Rogers Kilpatrick, Lloyd Hatcher, Rutherford Ellis, Preston Stevens, Murdoch Egan, Edwin McCarthy, Keith Quarterman, Richard Cannon, Samuel Evans, Edwin Lockridge, Neville Reed, Charles Hurt, Bonneau Ansley, William Green, William McClain, Charles Collins, Curtis Rand, Emily R. Head, Henry Poir, Lon Grove, Charles Tuller, Vann Jernigan, John Sibley, J. L. Pittman, John Ottley Jr., Jean Bienvenu, Hunter Bell, Howard Candler Jr., Richard Cotton, Joel Hurt III, Lawrence Willett, and Miss Margaret Stovall, Miss Louise Crater and Miss Jane McMillan. This afternoon the members of the John Floyd Chapter of the Daughters of 1812 and the Kentucky Club will be co-hostesses at an autographing party for Mrs. Moody from 2:30 to 3:30 o'clock at Rich's.

Betrothed Couple Feted at Supper

Among enjoyable events of last evening was the buffet supper and bridge party at which Mr. and Mrs. B. Allen Bryant were hosts at their home on Woodcrest avenue for Miss Mary X. Guptor and her fiancé, Robert M. McGregor, whose marriage will be an interesting event of March 22.

The hosts were assisted in entertaining by Mrs. David Blackwell.

The lace-covered table in the dining room was centered with a graceful arrangement of white gladioli and snapdragons, before which were placed a miniature bride and groom. Silver candelabra holding lighted white tapers flanked the central decoration. Circling the outer edge of the table was a miniature track on which ran a tiny electric train, with a wedding bell attached to the front and a miniature bride and groom placed on the rear of the observation car. Yellow and white spring flowers decorated the other reception rooms of the home.

The guests included Miss Guptor, Mr. McGregor, Mr. and Mrs. David Blackwell, Miss Camilla Parker, Miss Ione Thompson, Mrs. B. C. Fennell, Cecil G. Thompson, Walter Finch and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gilbert.

MR. AND MRS. MORRIS IRWIN McDONALD.

Miss Alberta Drake Bell Weds Morris McDonald in Decatur

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Irwin McDonald are honeymooning at fashionable Florida resorts following their marriage, which was brilliantly solemnized yesterday at the First Methodist Episcopal church in Decatur.

The interior of the church was further beautified by stately Kenia palms, which were placed against the altar to form a background for urns filled with Easter lilies and white snapdragons. Branches of candelabra holding lighted white tapers flanked the floral arrangements. Marking the pews were clusters of Easter lilies and white snapdragons tied with white satin ribbon.

Escorting guests to their places were Dr. Horace McDonald, Benjamin McDonald, A. D. Carter, and Robert Hecht.

Attends Bride. Miss Ann Finch Bell, who was her sister's maid of honor, resembled a Dresden shepherdess in her dainty gown of frost-green organza, which was fashioned with short puffed sleeves trimmed with stem green velvet. Gracing the sweetheart neckline were three accented-pleated flowers caught with a stem velvet bow, whose streamers fell to the hemline of the bouffant skirt. She wore a becoming crownless Kate Greenaway hat, fashioned of matching organza and trimmed with velvet ribbon. She carried a shower bouquet of talisman roses.

John Mills Bell gave his daughter in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Pierce McDonald, his brother. The bride's tithon beauty was further enhanced by her exquisite eggplant white mouseline de sole gown posed over net and taffeta and fashioned with full troubadour sleeves. The bouffant skirt was attached to the bodice by a girde of real rosepoint lace, similar lace being used to band the low robe de style neckline and the wrists of the sleeves. Her double finger-tip length veil of illusion tulle was worn empadour style. She carried a cascade bouquet of Belmont gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell entertained the wedding personnel and out-of-town guests at a reception at their home on Ponce de Leon place, in Decatur, following the ceremony.

Mrs. Bell received her guests wearing a handsome dawn-grey Nettie Rosenstein model fashioned with a square neckline, lace bodice, and a full, graceful skirt. Completing her stylish costume were a grey French felt hat and a shoulder cluster of purple orchids.

Mrs. Paul McDonald, the groom's mother, wore a beautiful hyacinth blue brocade gown accented by navy accessories and a parma purple hat styled with a crown of shaded violet. A spray of purple orchids adorned her shoulder.

Assisting List. Assisting the hosts in entertaining were Mesdames Matt Jorgensen, William Elsas, Sam Meyer Jr. and Miss Virginia Hollis.

The reception rooms were decorated with silver bowls filled with pastel-shaded spring flowers. In the dining room the bride's table was centered with a crystal bowl containing bouvardia and gardenias, and the crystal candelabra were garlanded with smilax. The base of the tiered cake was surrounded by clusters of white sweet peas. Gracing the buffet was a crystal punch bowl embedded in huckleberry foliage and a bowl filled with white gladioli.

Mrs. McDonald donned for traveling a chic three-piece tailored suit of turquoise McAllister tweed worn with a brown felt hat and brown accessories. A spray of gardenias adorned her shoulder.

Upon their return Mr. McDonald and his bride will reside at 633 North Moreland avenue and will become popular additions to the married contingent of society.

S. I. S. P. Club To Hold Reunion

Members of the S. I. S. P. Club will gather for their twenty-seventh annual reunion banquet tomorrow evening at the Georgian Terrace hotel, the affair to be highlighted by the talk by Miss Carrie Scandrett, dean of women at Agnes Scott College. Mrs. Eva Chambers, president, will preside and introduce special guests. Featuring the musical program are Mrs. Adrienne Holmes, sociolist, accompanied by Mrs. Victor B. Clark.

Organized in 1903, when participants in the first Y. W. C. A. "calisthenics" class had such good times together, they decided to band together as a club. S. I. S. P. members have met every Tuesday evening at the Y. W. C. A. for 38 years. The letters stand for the "spiritual, intellectual, social and physical" growth characteristic of Y. W. C. A. programs.

The Y. W. C. A. at 37 Auburn avenue, will be gay with carnival spirit Saturday evening as Industrial Club entertains in the gymnasium with side shows, games, dancing, and refreshments. Proceeds will send delegates to the southern industrial conference held at Camp Merriewoods, North Carolina, in June.

Headed by Mrs. Francis Dwyer, of the committee, and Mrs. J. E. Mewborn, club member, each feature will be a co-operative project worked out by committee and club members. Games will be directed by Miss Kitty Johnson, Mrs. Dan Rencher, Miss Mae S. Ogden, Dr. Amey Chappell, J. E. Newborn, Dan Rencher, F. R. Murphy, Vera Stone, Beulah Cooper, Reiss Kirby, Ruth King, Trinkets and surprise packages will be in charge of Mrs. M. E. Tilly, Miss Lois Ellis, Mrs. Mildred Morgan and Mrs. Helen Robertson.

Mrs. W. S. McLarin Jr. and Mrs. Bernice Murphy have arranged with Dean Dwyer for a fashion show, with students from Commercial High school, modeling latest designs in sports, street wear, evening dresses and play frocks. Pupils from Eugenia Dozier's classes will give speciality dances. Jack Boozer, of Emory University, will be master of ceremonies and Miss Ollie Mae Fleming directs the cake walk; Mrs. Robert Wiggins, Miss Dora Robinson and Miss Corra Alexander will assist as hostesses.

East Atlanta News.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lyle were hosts to the Kill Kare Club at a bridge dinner recently at their home on Florida avenue in East Atlanta.

Mrs. Charlie Ragsdale entertained the members of the Busy Bee Club at her home on Cherokee avenue.

Miss Betty McDonald entertained recently at a dinner party celebrating her 17th birthday. Guests were Misses Hilda Bankston, Doris Street, Betty McDonald and Floyd Sims, Robert Argo and Ben Avery Jr. Mrs. J. T. Daniel assisted her daughter in entertaining.

Grand Council Fire To Be Held By Camp Fire Girls on Sunday

A Grand Council Fire, celebrating the 29th birthday of the Camp Fire Girls, will take place Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, at the Shrine Mosque. The theme of the ceremonial will be "Treasures Trails," the name of the national birthday project. This deals with the trails of creative art that converge on America from all the corners of the world, as well as those trails leading into the future, which every girl may help to blaze.

The ceremonial will open with the Whoelo call being given by all torchbearers in the city. The procession of 700 girls will follow, entering through an arch formed by flags. The flag bearers will be Eva Mae Price, Carmen Proctor, Carolyn McCleskey and Doris Sullivan. Florence Williams, president of girls' cabinet, will give the welcome, and Mrs. Virginia W. Beals, executive secretary of the local council, will lead the ceremonial.

A candle-lighting ceremony will develop the thought, "The Treasures trails of all the world lie at your feet, O, Youth, what will you do with them?" Tapers will be lighted for Creative Thinking, by Nan Honour; Appreciation of Individual, Doris Parketn; Co-operative Tasks, Barbara Dordward; Friendliness, Kitty Riley; Creative Arts, Beverly Fosom; Music, Gloria McLeroy; Crafts, Catharine Henry, and Poetry, by Patricia LeMasters.

National honors will be awarded by Mrs. J. C. Malone, member of the national board of directors. Ranks will be conferred on 72 trail seekers: 13 woodgatherers; 5 firemakers and 5 torchbearers. Two blue bird groups will graduate from the junior program to Camp Fire Girls. They are Forrest Blue Birds, from Forrest Avenue school, with Mrs. Pauline Haffling, leader, and Highland School Blue Birds, with Mrs. C. E. Connors, leader.

The ceremonial will close with an extinguishing of the candles and a recessional.

Each Camp Fire and Blue Bird group will assist in exhibit of their work during the year. Friends of the organization are invited.

Miss Mitchell Becomes Bride Of Mr. Williams at Home Rites

Miss Margaret Elizabeth Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy N. Mitchell, became the bride of Daniel E. Williams, son of Mrs. G. B. Williams Sr., last evening at a lovely ceremony taking place at the home of her parents on Erin avenue.

Elder J. A. Monsees officiated at 8 o'clock in the presence of a limited number of members of the families and friends. Prior to and during the ceremony a musical program was presented by Miss Martha Bagwell, soloist, and W. H. Jones, soloist.

An improvised altar was arranged in the living room of the home before the fireplace and a background was made of quantities of palms, ferns and other rich greenery. On either side of the altar were two pedestal baskets filled with pink snapdragons and white carnations and cathedral candelabra holding white tapers. Aisle posts were linked by white satin ribbons forming the entrance for the wedding party.

Miss Jacqueline Stone was the maid of honor and only attendant and was beautifully gowned in a suit model of beige Indian earth and her hat and other accessories were Indian earth. Her flowers were Talisman roses.

Entering with her father, Roy Mitchell, by whom she was given in marriage, the bride was met at the altar by the groom and Harry Overton, who was best man. She was beautifully gowned in a costume suit of mist blue wool trimmed with a lynx dyed fox collar. Her hat was mist blue trimmed with navy and her accessories were navy. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls, the gift of the groom, and she carried a real lace handkerchief, owned by Mrs. C. G. Mitchell, aunt of the bride, and carried by all the Mitchell family nieces at their weddings.

After the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception at their home for their daughter and Mr. Williams. Throughout the home a profusion of pink snapdragons and white carnations carried out a color scheme of pink and white. Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. J. Kinsey York, sister of the bride; Mrs. James A. Patrick, Misses Louise Brown and Martha and Marion Belle Isle.

Mrs. Mitchell, mother of the bride, was gowned in a model of navy blue trimmed with white and cuffs of white. Her accessories were navy and she wore Johanna Hill roses.

During the evening the bridal couple will leave for a wedding trip south and upon their return they will reside at 680 Erin avenue.

Out-of-town guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Jones, of Augusta; Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Dodge, of Rome; Mr. and Mrs. John W. Waters, of Rome; Mrs. J. A. Redmond, of Athens; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Manning, of Chickamauga; and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Adair, of Greenville, S. C., and others.

Brides-Elect Feted. Miss Lottie Wiggins and Miss Helen Dunbar, brides-elect, were entertained by a group of friends at a supper party and miscellaneous shower at the Cox-Carlton hotel recently.

Present were Misses Dorothy Ford, Mildred Abernethy, Cornelia Fallon, Margaret Lemmond, Susie Culpepper and Edna Thompson, and Mesdames Martha Comer, Jack Higginbotham, Myrick Hillman, Joe Isaacson, Iris Dacus, Louise Grant, Elizabeth Wilhoit, Moses Cutler and Harry L. Parks.

Rehearsal Suppers Honor Popular Engaged Couples

Climaxing the series of brilliant social affairs that have been given in compliment to various popular brides-elect and their fiancés, whose marriages will be important events of today, were the supper parties given last evening following the rehearsals for their weddings.

Miss Martha Ewing and Jack Eastland Jr., whose wedding will be an important event at the First Presbyterian church, were central figures at the elaborate seated dinner at which Mr. and Mrs. William Candler were hosts in the Empire room of the Biltmore hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Ewing, parents of the bride-elect, and Mr. and Mrs. Howell Ross Hanson, parents of the hosts, assisted in entertaining.

The guests were seated at two long tables, with varied similar decorations in pink and blue, carrying out the color scheme of the gowns to be worn by Miss Ewing's bridesmaids. The tables were centered with low, oblong arrangements of pink and blue flowers, from which arose tall, slender tapers in a pastel shade of pink. The refreshments also carried out the pink and blue color motif.

Invited for the occasion were 60 guests, including the members of the bridal party, their wives and husbands and the members of the families.

The rehearsal supper which honored Miss Estelle Chaffin and her fiancé, Glenn Howard Turner, was given by Miss Dorothy Cutts at her home on Manford avenue.

The hosts were assisted in entertaining by her parents, Rev. and Mrs. W. Lee Cutts.

The lace-covered table in the dining room was centered by an embossed bride's cake placed on a mound of white flowers and fern. Flanking this were lighted white tapers held in silver candelabra, and white spring flowers were used as the floral decorations throughout the home.

The guests were limited to the betrothed couple, the members of their wedding party and their families.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Harvey Kincaid entertained at a buffet supper at their home on Grady place for Miss Lucile Boswell and her fiancé, Lamar Davis, following the rehearsal for their wedding.

The green and white decorations throughout the reception from which arose tall, slender tapers in a pastel shade of pink. The refreshments also carried out the pink and blue color motif.

Comprising the guests list were the members of the honor couple's wedding party and a few additional close friends.

Spring Brings Slim Silhouette

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, March 14.—These clothes an adaptability without sacrificing the straight line. For evening wear, the "covered-up" look. High necks and long sleeves. Again, molded body lines and soft materials that cling and drape softly. The Chinese influence will give a new importance to sleeves—wider armholes, kimono cuts, Dolman sleeves, and the return to the normal shoulder. The square shoulder, padded and built out too far, is dead. Spring 1941 will find shoulders padded only when the figure demands it, and then very carefully to look natural. Natural waist-lines will remain, and skirts will stay long for evening wear and short for daytime (anywhere from 16, 17 and 18 inches from the ground, depending upon the wearer), but none will be above the knee.

Bette Davis looks very nautical in her new sailor slacks costume. There's a sailor collar on the mid-dy top of a pair of white flannel slacks; the collar is in Roman striped grosgrain. There's also a matching striped bag.

Merle Oberon, dancing at Mocambo, Hollywood's latest night spot, has a necklace of sterling silver and rhinestone stars, posed against her simple, navy sheer dinner gown.

Olivia de Havilland's latest "nightie"—in chartreuse chiffon with accordion-pleated skirt, empire waistline edged with chartreuse satin ribbon with front bow, and the top applied with tiny satin roses and leaves, and braided ribbon for the double shoulder straps. It looks much too smart for a nightgown.

Ann Rutherford wears her heart on her belt—a hand-made belt of cyclamen-colored hemp, with an open lace design, and fastened with two plump little hearts of chartreuse suede. The belt is worn over a white sharkskin slacks suit.

Ruth Hussey shopping on Wilshire boulevard in a sports suit that had a short waistcoat, like a man's vest, with two man-tailored pockets on either side, under her jacket. The beige, woolen suit was cut on strictly tailored lines. A small, blue, felt beret, tilted over one eyebrow and up in the back, looked cute on Ruth's dark locks.

Nervousness Can Easily Be Overcome

What a hard time the nervous worrier has! Off for an evening at the movies with her husband, she takes all the day's troubles right along with her.

That's the trouble with many high-strung people. They don't realize that worrying is a vicious circle. The more you worry, the more you exhaust your nervous energies and then you're an even easier prey to anxiety. By and by you worry yourself into indigestion, insomnia, perhaps a breakdown.

But don't regret the fact that you're high-strung. Thank your lucky stars you are, for it means you can live much more richly, be much more charming than the calm, stogy type. Just resolve to use your energies more wisely. Learn to relax.

The next time you feel like going in for an orgy of worrying, visit a friend, give a party or bake a cake—anything to keep that cycle of worry and nerves from getting a start.

Don't underestimate the value of a good laugh or a good cry. When you're wrought up, they'll provide the outlet you need. Fine, too, are lively games—badminton, bowling.

In learning about your nerves and their care, you may find also that you have suffered from some psychological maladjustment. Often an old childhood fear or inferiority is at the root of nervous troubles.

Understand the psychological factors in "nerves" as well as the external ones! In our 40-page booklet, HOW TO AVOID AND OVERCOME NERVOUS TROUBLES, a noted psychologist tells how to make the readjustments you need to overcome nervousness. Discusses "nervous" symptoms such as indigestion, insomnia. Helps you redirect your energies for greater happiness.

Woman's Quiz

Q. What proportion of condensed milk may be used as a substitute for sweet milk?

A. One-half cup of condensed milk and 1-2 cup of water should be substituted for each cup of sweet milk in the recipe.

Q. Please state some uses of molasses in cookery.

A. It may be used to sweeten food such as hot or cold cereals, boiled rice, or on bread and butter. A small amount of molasses added to whipped cream or ice creams give an excellent flavor. It also improves the taste of griddle cakes and waffles.

Q. Does a 100-watt electric light bulb give more light than two 50-watt bulbs?

A. A 100-watt bulb gives as much light as two 60-watt or six 25-watt bulbs.

Q. My tin pans have turned brown with use. Is it all right to continue to use them?

A. Yes. This color is tin oxide, which is a better conductor of heat than tin itself. This explains in part why cakes brown so much better on the bottom in old tin pans than in new ones.

Today's Charm Tip

"It's not my job," is a charm-as-well-as-success-hampering motto. Don't be afraid to step outside your prescribed routine, for that way lies growth and a more interesting personality.

Selecting blue as the predominant color of her spring outfit, Ida Lupino looks chic in this suit of imported cashmere in powder blue with a herringbone weave, a topcoat of blue and brown plaid, and a turban of blue Jersey. Her accessories are also blue.

No Excuse For Holding Excess Fat

By Ida Jean Kain.

All it takes to get out of reducing with a clear conscience is a good excuse. So if you don't have one, you may invent it. Perhaps you don't reduce because . . .

You have high blood pressure and have to be careful. Or, you're "just naturally fat" and a diet doesn't make a speck of difference.

Well, how about this one—"I'd rather be a bit overweight than so thin and haggard?"

But perhaps you say, almost wistfully, "With my heart I can't reduce—I cannot take any exercise whatever."

Then again, you may bring your husband into it: "He likes me just the way I am and simply puts his foot down when it comes to those diets."

Maybe you put it off on your age, in the sincere belief that "When a woman gets to be my age, she has no business dieting."

Finally, there's the excuse of "I do all my own housework and if that isn't enough exercise, nothing."

What's your favorite reason for not reducing? Let's see whether it's legitimate.

With high blood pressure and weight considerably above normal, you'd better reduce. That's the first step the doctor usually suggests. In 1,000 cases of high blood pressure and overweight, it was found that the loss of ten pounds lowered the blood pressure 14 points! So, obviously, a low calorie diet is in order. It's true you have to be careful about exercise—avoid those in which you bend over—but a few mild exercises to strengthen the abdominal muscles are a health measure.

You may have cause to believe you are naturally fat. But the fact remains that all excess fat is the direct result of excess calories. You probably have a low calorie requirement and to control your weight you must be very discriminating in your choice of foods. You should avoid fat in any form, and all rich desserts.

If you have the habit of announcing, with defiance in your voice, that you'd better be plump than thin and haggard, you are not being fair in your comparison. Getting your weight down to normal—not below it—is bound to improve your appearance.

You may be among those who have a heart condition. Then you should know that every excess pound imposes an additional burden upon that hard-working heart of yours. You should take only the exercise the doctor advises, but you should never overeat.

If you demand of your husband whether he considers you too fat, the gallant man is obliged to assure you that he likes you just as you are. What else could he say? But when you slim down, you will find he likes you much better as you are afterwards. I have yet to meet a woman who reduced on a healthful diet and, who did it without boring the family with the details whose husband failed to give his enthusiastic approval of her more attractive appearance.

When you reach the point where you say off-handedly "at my age"—it is much better for you to be slightly underweight! All the statistics support the theory of "a lean horse for a long race."

It looks as if most of these reasons for not reducing are just alibis. There seems to be no legitimate excuse for not taking off 20 to 50 pounds of excess fat.

The "Weight and Measurement Record" will make it easier for you to check your slimming progress. Send stamped return envelope for this leaflet to Ida Jean Kain, The Constitution, Atlanta, Georgia.

MY DAY: A Visit From Paderewski

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

GOLDEN BEACH, Fla., Thursday.—Our days continue to be bright and sunny and the moon is so glorious at night that it seems a pity not to be 18 again and subject to its influence. We have had one or two showers, but they were over quickly and everything seemed to be greener afterwards.

On Tuesday afternoon Ignace Paderewski drove down from Palm Beach to call on me. He had gone there to attend a concert and evidently had enjoyed his evening. It was very kind of him to want to come to see me, but I felt rather guilty that he should take so much trouble.

The last two years have not been happy ones for him, with the storm clouds gathering everywhere and the danger coming ever closer to his beloved Poland. I think when you have given as much of yourself as he has to his country, it must be bitter indeed to see all your world thrown away and apparently lost because of the cruel ambitions of one man.

I do not suppose, however, that any really good work is ever lost. Somewhere the seed remains and the influence is felt in the future. But for a time at least that Paderewski has done as a statesman must seem to him wiped out.

One feels that these years have sapped his strength, but his eyes are as keen as ever and they look at you with an expression which is indicative of the same courage we have grown to expect from this gentleman.

We were interested, too, in his young secretary, who told us a good deal about his travels in South America. I was happy to have this opportunity of seeing once again a very great man and shall take his message to the President when I return to Washington.

Yesterday afternoon I went with the supervisor of the Florida migratory camps, Mr. Paul Van Der Schouw, to see one of the new farm security camps just being completed at Pompano. On the way up we passed through a great deal of farming land where beans, tomatoes and peppers all seemed to be ripening.

In some places the workers have had a hard time because there has been so much water they have not been able to make crops, but around here I gather that the crops have been fair.

We drove by the houses which are at present being used by the workers, and I was impressed all over again by the lack of organization and sanitation surrounding these living quarters. The new government camp seems to me better planned than the old ones and an improvement in every way.

None of the houses have accommodations for more than four families. Most of them are for two-family use. The clinic and assembly hall are very adequate for the size of the camp. This particular camp will house about 300 families and is almost ready for occupation.

New Courses Are Preparing Young Girls for Marriage

By Caroline Chatfield.

Stevens College in Missouri has added to its curriculum a course in Personal Finance which will do more to prepare girls for marriage than all the rest of the courses combined. For, say what you please, ignorance of the mechanics of money wrecks more marriages than any other one thing.

The girls at Stevens College who are studying Personal Finance won't make such mistakes when their turn comes. They are being taught, so we read, to make budgets, keep books, buy only what they need after bargain-hunting reveals the best buy, buy when there are seasonal reductions. They are being taught to resist decoy displays and to save the cash of resisted temptation. And then to remake their budgets as they acquire skill in managing money. They are making an exciting game of budgeting which we have always maintained every married pair can do and should do if they are to make ends meet, lay aside a surplus and keep down disagreements at the first of the month.

It's smart to be thrifty according to a famous store's slogan. Yes, and only the smart are thrifty. True a budget is considered a prime necessity in every marriage today.

Sybil, Declaring Her Dislike for Karl, Makes Scene as Joan Returns From Date

By Sylvia Taylor

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS: Joan Leland is both dazed and angry when Arthur Mulford, San Francisco importer, gives her two weeks' salary and, refusing an explanation, tells her that her services as his secretary are no longer required. She knows her work has been satisfactory and she is turning when she goes to the studio apartment she shares with her older sister Sybil, who, although only 27, has been divorced for six years. Before Joan can tell her sister her job because the beauty shop where she works is closing. In the Help Wanted column of the evening paper Joan sees an ad for a secretary. The North Beach address is that of a new night club, about to open. Karl Miller, a handsome, powerfully built man, engages her, although she has no references because she was so angry she forgot to ask Mulford for them. When she mentions Mulford, her sister Sybil, who was in the importing business until the war closed him up, her salary will be $50 a week because of the unusual hours, he says, and he pays her two weeks in advance. There is a trace of acceptance in his speech but Joan finds him fascinating, a fact that Sybil divines. There must be something shady about Mulford's night club, Sybil declares, when she hears of the advance pay. Joan has to work hard and steadily, but she finds Miller interesting and she is glad when he asks her to go dancing with him the night before his club is to open. He says he is new in the night club business and needs some pointers. When she gets home at 2 a. m. Sybil orders Joan to quit her job with Miller at once.

INSTALLMENT III.

But it was almost 6 o'clock before Karl said, "All right, Joan, you may go now. You don't have to be back until 8:30."

The unexpected use of her first name sent a thrill of anticipation through the girl. She paused for a moment before she opened the door, hoping that he would say something else, but Karl turned his powerful shoulders abruptly and began talking over the telephone.

"I must be crazy," Joan told herself as she hurried down the long corridor. "He hasn't any more interest in me than I have in the furniture."

She had dinner at a small restaurant, sipping hot coffee gratefully. She remembered with a wry smile that Sybil was worried about her salary. She could understand now why Karl thought the job was worth $50 a week! She was as tired already as if she had put in a full day.

She lingered over her after-dinner cigarette and walked slowly back to work, pausing on the way to look in the shop windows. But she could not fill up two hours and a half and it was only a few minutes before eight when she pushed open the elaborately carved door of the Club Elite.

An orchestra was rehearsing in the dimly lit salon. Karl Miller sat on one of the gilt chairs listening. His keen eyes spotted Joan instantly.

"Sit down," he directed. "What do you think of the band?"

"It sounds grand." She felt the old sensation of self-consciousness. What was this peculiar excitement that seized her whenever he smiled at her?

He offered her a cigarette and her hand shook as she took it. She lifted embarrassed eyes to his and saw that he was smiling.

"Is anything wrong, Joan?" He was so sure of himself, so smooth. It made her feel like a schoolgirl. She felt positive that he knew the emotions that were racing through her heart. Positive that he knew the attraction he had for her. The knowledge made her reply almost haughtily in self-defense. "Nothing! Why should there be?"

He laughed then, throwing back his fair head. It was the first time she had seen him drop his expressionless mask. But the laughter made her angry.

"I'd better get back to work. There's a lot to do."

He caught her hand as she rose.

"How would you like to go dancing with me Friday night?" His proposal took her by complete surprise. "Why, Mr. Miller, I'd love to."

He released her hand. "I would prefer that you call me Karl."

"All right, Karl. But what about working Friday night?"

"You'll be working for the boss," he reminded her, smiling. "I'll see that we're through early."

Joan did not tell Sybil about her date until the time came. As she had suspected, her sister did not approve.

"Going out with the boss never works," Sybil insisted stubbornly. "Honestly, Joan, I don't know what's come over you. You're not using your head at all. There's something funny about this whole business. I don't trust this man!"

"Let's not go over it again," Joan said happily. "When you see Karl Miller you'll understand why I'm so crazy about him."

Sybil sat down on the bed and watched her sister applying makeup with careful fingers. "If he's opening the club tomorrow, what is he doing running around to-night? Why isn't he in the office taking care of things?"

"That's his business, isn't it? Look, Syb, will you light the fire in the living room? I want everything to look nice."

"Nice and cozy!" sniffed Sybil. "Okay. But don't think I'm going to be the retiring sister and stay in the bedroom. I'm going to be right there to meet him."

Joan slipped into the new black velvet dinner dress she had purchased before she knew Karl Miller. She had been saving it for an occasion like this. The square neck was provocatively cut, the sleeves were long and tight, and scrolls of silver sequins were sprinkled over the trailing skirt.

Joan had drawn her smooth black hair over her ears, and coiled it in a low knot at the nape of her white neck. The green eyes glowed like emeralds.

"Look, Syb," Joan begged. "May I use a little of your perfume?"

Sybil thrust the bottle at her ungraciously. "That dress makes you look 10 years older, Joan. Karl was not to be ruffled."

"After all, darling, you can't expect me to run around in pink tulle all my life. And Karl must be all of 35," she added thoughtfully.

"All of 40," snapped Sybil. "You have no sense of timing. You sound with a man twice your age."

"Skip it! Please, Sybil!"

Karl Miller put an end to the arguments by pressing his finger on the doorknob. Joan flew to meet him.

She felt his irritation towards Sybil. "My parents are both dead," she explained. "Syb feels that she has to look after me."

But even Joan was annoyed to find Sybil waiting up for them later that night.

"It's almost 2 o'clock," Sybil snapped. "What's the idea?"

Karl Miller looked amused as he stood hat in hand in the doorway. "In that case, I shall say good night without further delay."

When he had gone Joan turned furiously to her sister. "Why did you have to say that? I'm old enough to manage my own affairs."

There were deep circles of fatigue beneath Sybil's blue eyes. Her voice seemed to echo like a warning through the old-fashioned, high-ceilinged rooms.

"You've got to quit working for Karl Miller! You've got to quit tomorrow!"

Continued Monday.

An Hawaiian orchestra played under soft, rosy lights. Karl was a superb dancer, surprisingly light on his feet for such a heavily built man.

"He's like tempered steel," Joan thought. "Everything about him. Voice, expression, strength." He held her lightly but Jane felt that she could not have broken away from him had she tried.

"I have news for you," he said suddenly. "Your former employer, Mr. Mulford, has gone out of business. No doubt that is why he let you go."

"But that's impossible," Joan cried in surprise. "I happen to know that his financial affairs were in good order. And when I called the office three days ago, he had hired a new secretary. Why would he do that if he were closing the shop?"

Karl Miller did not smile. "You are quite a little detective."

Joan laughed. "I'd like to be one. I'm afraid I'm an adventuresome soul in spite of the unexciting life I've led."

"Perhaps your life will become more exciting as it goes on."

"I hope it does," Joan said recklessly.

"I am quite sure," Karl Miller said tonelessly, "that it will."

What was it about him that drew and held her interest? His face, which showed her a thousand men in one? Varied moods, hardness, coldness, irritation, and amusement? He was obviously a man of the world, a world that Joan had never known. His guttural foreign accent intrigued her. What experiences, what dangers lurked behind that studied mask of indifference?

"Don't think too much, Joan," Karl advised her gently. "I have found that it seldom pays."

It was a strange evening, gay yet restrained by the undercurrents that baffled and disturbed Joan. Afterward, looking back on this evening, she could understand many things, but at the time being with Karl was all that mattered.

Feeling the touch of his arms as they danced, looking into his eyes as he raised his glass, hearing his charming voice blending into the wail of Hawaiian music, guitars, gentle bass, soft drums, the quartette from Honolulu that droned chants into their ears.

He paid her many compliments. "I like your hair that way," he remarked. "It makes you look quite foreign and much older."

"My sister doesn't like it at all. She has an idea that I'm still a little girl."

His eyes swept the figure in its black velvet sheath. "Really? I am afraid that your sister and I would not agree."

She felt his irritation towards Sybil. "My parents are both dead," she explained. "Syb feels that she has to look after me."

But even Joan was annoyed to find Sybil waiting up for them later that night.

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 19th (ARIES)—Before 10:30 a. m. avoid being hasty or impulsive. Use caution around occupational hazards. From 10:30 a. m. and throughout the remainder of the day, be ready to promote changes, put aggressive action behind matters dealing with land.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—The influences prevailing previously to 11:30 p. m. are the most favorable of the day, for affairs will tend to go right with less effort. Financial gains, literary efforts, prepayment of some sort, accompany these influences. The remainder of the day and evening do not, especially favor new beginnings.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—It would be wise to keep an eye on money matters today, for the tendency is towards extravagance and misallocation. The evening hours after 6 p. m. suggest unusual caution to avoid sharp and severe disappointments resulting from unexpected situations.

June 21st and July 22nd (CANCER)—Previous to 12:14 p. m. the influences favor general business activities. Between 12:14 p. m. and 10:07 p. m. discretion should be used around domestic affairs.

July 23rd and August 22nd (LEO)—The combined influences today supply inspiration that is favorable for financial interests, making personal decisions as well as general business activities. The best aspects of the day operate previous to 2 p. m.

August 23rd and September 22nd (VIRGO)—It will be wise to keep an eye on money matters today, for the tendency is towards extravagance and misallocation. The evening hours after 6 p. m. suggest unusual caution to avoid sharp and severe disappointments resulting from unexpected situations.

September 23rd and October 22nd (LIBRA)—After 12 o'clock noon favors active work of all sorts, ideas that require energy and enthusiasm. The best vibrations of the day operate between 12 noon and 5 p. m.

October 23rd and November 21st (SCORPIO)—The entire day is a time to be cautious. The feelings of people around you may be extremely sensitive, or you may meet chilly receptions, which is not conducive towards good results. Dealings with women or work pertaining to the needs of women bring some bright spots during the day.

November 22nd and December 21st (SAGITTARIUS)—Previous to 11:35 a. m. favors expansion along financial lines. An excellent period for dealing in education, legal and banking interest. During the afternoon and evening proceed cautiously in dealings of an unusual nature.

December 22nd and January 19th (CAPRICORN)—Before 8:53 a. m. and after 4:14 p. m. are the better parts of the day. After 4:14 p. m. conferences of agreements can be made with great rapidity.

January 20th and February 18th (AQUARIUS)—After 10:47 a. m. favors practical work and dealings with people of a conservative nature, but does not especially favor making sudden changes. The period suggests sticking to routine.

February 19th and March 20th (PISCES)—The entire day and evening does not especially favor new or important undertakings. An excellent day to stick to routine and finish those things already started.

Planes Said Demons.

When the airplanes flew over Minya, Tibet, for the first time recently, the woolly nomads pronounced them one of the sinister forces which inhabit the air and bring destruction on harmless men. The white men cannot convince them that the airplane is not a demon. The lamas and lamaseries in Yanchienlu, Tibet, are not taking kindly to electricity, believing it somehow connected with the powers of darkness.

Wrecker Is Halted.

Demolition of St. Tichon's Orphanage in Shanghai, China, was stopped by police of the French Concession when children still in the institution called attention to a big hole in the roof. The hole was made by wreckers hired by a realty company. While tearing down houses in the vicinity they began work of demolishing the orphanage building before it was abandoned.

Woman Flies at 85.

Mrs. Jane Pope, 85 years old, of Hamilton, New Zealand, the oldest passenger to fly between Australia and New Zealand, has returned home from Sydney. She flew from Auckland to Sydney on her birthday, October 27, 1940, and was the first person to celebrate a birthday in Auckland and Sydney on the same day. "No more boats for me," she told the pilot on the return trip. "I expect to fly back to Australia five years from now."

Lenses Ground.

Mass production of high-grade precision lenses is possible, according to the inventor of a new machine in Switzerland. Berne reports that the machine may be adjusted by a skilled worker, then operated by unskilled persons. He claims the lenses thus produced are of greater precision than those ground by present methods. A large Swiss optical company has purchased the rights of exploitation of the new method in Switzerland.

Senators Vote To Obliterate Rivers' Name

Milledgeville Honor to 5 Would Be Rescinded by Measure.

The senate yesterday by 22 to 10 passed a resolution ordering the State Hospital Authority to obliterate the names of former Governor Rivers, Attorney General Ellis Arnall and three members of the old board which appear carved in stone over the entrances of hospital buildings at Milledgeville.

Senator Cecil Franklin, of Rockmart, the author of the resolution, called upon the new authority—consisting of Governor Talmadge, Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. and Arnall himself—to select the names of five "outstanding Georgians who are no longer living" and inscribed them on the new buildings.

Members of the old authority, whose names are on the new dormitories, are Ivan Allen Jr., S. W. Howell, R. H. Freeman Jr. and Ellis Arnall.

Passage of the measure would be "beneath the dignity of the senate," Senator John H. McGee said. "I have never supported Ed Rivers in my life, but I don't think this should be said as a petty malice against a man."

Franklin then read a letter from Ellis Arnall which said, in part, "The director of the authority advised me several months ago that the state board had seen fit to bring back to the old buildings for me, a greatly appreciated honor. I never did it, directly or indirectly."

"In Complete Accord," "As far as I personally am concerned I have no possible objection to the deletion of my name from any building on which it may appear. I shall be in complete accord with whatever decision the general assembly desires to take."

The senate also decided to investigate the legality of 33 local constitutional amendments passed Thursday by the house of representatives in one roll call. To expedite the business of the lower chamber, members decided to pass the bills in a lump.

When the first of these bills was read yesterday in the senate, President Charles Redwine said he "doubted very much" whether they had been passed properly. Each constitutional amendment requires a roll call vote.

34 Bunched Bills. As the 34 bills have been referred to the senate committee on constitutional amendments, Senator William Lanier moved that the committee, confer with Attorney General Arnall to determine if they have been properly passed. "If they have," Lanier said, "we can vote on them without fear of passing an illegal act. If he says they are no good, however, we send them back to the house in time for proper passage."

At the close of the session Senator S. W. Martin announced two public hearings by his committee on hygiene and sanitation to be held at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon on a bill to regulate osteopaths. A similar bill regulating chiropractors will be discussed at the same hour Tuesday.

Loan Shark Measure. Action on the loan shark bill, which was the subject of vigorous debate Thursday, was postponed. The rules committee, however, is expected to bring the bill out again Monday morning.

Because it raises the small loan interest rate from 1.5 per cent per month to 3.5 per cent, the bill met with opposition. The authors, Senators Enderfield and Whaley, believed they could "iron out the difficulties" over the weekend.

Today in Atlanta Churches

Harvey Livingston, originator of "Bible Briefs," appearing in The Constitution, will speak to the Ambassador Baptist Training Union of the Baptist Tabernacle at 6 o'clock Sunday evening at the church.

Dr. Franklin N. Parker, dean emeritus of the Candler School of Theology, will preach at St. Mark Methodist church Sunday evening.

Special service for the deaf will be held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the St. Luke's Episcopal church, with the Rev. Robert C. Fletcher, who is deaf himself and preaches in sign language, in charge of the service.

Dr. William C. Robinson, professor of historical theology at Columbia Seminary, will be guest speaker Sunday evening at the Westminster Presbyterian church. His subject will be "The Ascension of Christ."

Variety Club of Atlanta will be guests of the Cathedral of St. Philip at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. Dean Raimundo de Ovies, chaplain of the club and rector of the church, will preach.

Bishop H. J. Mikkil will preach at 11 o'clock Sunday morning at the Church of the Incarnation, and will confirm a class to be presented by the rector, the Rev. Theodore V. Morrissey. Special music will be furnished by a choir under the direction of Mrs. Mozelle Horton Young, organist. A reception for members of the class will be held from 4 to 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the church.

Dr. Walter Holcomb, pastor of Wesley Memorial Methodist church, has returned from Miami, where he visited friends at Florida and Tampa.

Ralph Sims Loses Suit for Back Pay

Ralph G. Sims, appointed director of the State Department of Industrial Relations in September, 1936, lost under a state supreme court decision yesterday an effort to collect $14,794 he claimed as back salary.

Appointed by Governor Eugene Talmadge, Sims was legislated out of office in 1937 and former Governor Rivers named Arlie D. Tuck to succeed him as head of the department which administers workmen's compensation.

The court held that he had no cause for action because his "ad interim appointment" was not confirmed at the next session of the senate and because the office to which he had been named had been abolished by the reorganization act of 1937.

Three Given 14 Years In Plot To Wreck Train

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 14. (AP)—Three men who sent a $50,000 extortion letter to the Southern Pacific Railroad and then tried to wreck one of its trains were sentenced today to 14-year terms in prison.

The men, who pleaded guilty, were Kenneth A. Lennon, 20; Bernad C. Carter, 20, and Owen B. McHenry 33.

John Roosevelt Gets Commission as Ensign

WASHINGTON, March 14. (AP)—John Roosevelt, the President's youngest son, has been given an officer's commission as ensign in the navy's supply corps, the navy disclosed today.

The last of the President's four sons to be made an officer in one of the armed services, he will be ordered to active duty soon.
